ED finally grills Soren in Ranchi land scam case

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

AMID protests by Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM) workers, officials of the Enforcement Directorate (ED) began questioning Chief Minister Hemant Soren at his residence here since 1 pm in connection with a land scam. Soren had skipped seven summonses before he agreed to be questioned.

According to sources, eight ED officials came in with files and a list of 300 questions for the interrogation. Questions were mostly related to the land scam and sources of his income, they said. Later in the evening, additional files were brought in.

The ED is investigating the Ranchi land scam on the basis of documents recovered from key accused Bhanu Pratap Prasad's house. Several important documents relating to the scam were found in the raid from the house of Sub-Inspector Prasad of Badagain zone. Certain documents show the CM allegedly grabbing a parcel of tribal land in Ranchi.

Amid apprehension that Soren could be arrested, many MLAs of the ruling alliance gathered at the chief minister's house since morning to show their support. Likewise, hundreds of JMM workers gathered near his house with bow and arrow placards, party flags and banners. They were shouting slogans against the ED and the Centre. They warned that the ED should be prepared to face the consequences if it were to arrest Soren. Soon security was beefed up and prohibitory orders issued within a radius of 500 metres from the CM's house till 11 pm.

On Wednesday, the JMM claimed that there is huge resentment among people against Enforcement Directorate's politically motivated actions against its leader.

Dalit who donated rock to make Ram Lalla to give land for temple

Rocks that were excavated from land belonging to farmer Ramdas (inset) at Gujjegowdanapura near Mysuru | EXPRESS

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

DELIGHTED over the use of a stone block from his land at Gujjegowdanapura village near Mysuru to carve the idol of Ram Lalla to be consecrated in Ayodhya on January 22, Dalit farmer Ramdas has decided to donate part of his property to construct a Ram temple. Ramdas said people of Gujjegowdanapura are happy that the idol has been carved out of the stone block from their village.

"I wanted to clear the rocks on my 2.14 acres of land for cultivation. The rocks excavated suited the requirement of Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust and Mysuru-based sculptor Arun Yogiraj selected one of them," he said.

"With many from the village expressing their desire to see a Ram temple on my land from where the stone block was taken to Ayodhya, I decided to donate part of it," Ramdas said.

Srinivas, a local quarry contractor, who took up the work to clear the rocks, said it took a few days to remove one of the huge rocks that was split into three blocks. When work was going on, Mannaiah Badigar, Narendra Shilpi and Gopal contacted him for a stone block to carve the Ram Lalla idol.

"When I told them that we have three huge blocks of stone measuring 10ft, they visited Ramdas' land and took one of them to Ayodhya for tests by experts. We were delighted when they told us that the trust has selected the stone block. Soon, orders for four more blocks to carve the idols of Bharatha, Lakshmana and Shatrugna were delivered in a month," he said.

Meanwhile, local legislator GT Devegowda said villagers will lay the foundation stone for the temple on Ramdas' land on January 22. Gujjegowdanapura will be spruced up for that special occasion, he added.

He said he along with the villagers would approach Yogiraj to carve an idol of Lord Ram for the temple using a stone block excavated there.

TRUST TO TAKE ACTION OVER LEAKED PICTURE

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Ayodhya

THE Shree Ram Teerth Kshetra Trust that oversees the construction of Ram Temple, on Saturday warned that it will take action against those who released the image of the Ram Lalla idol's face before the consecration. The image of the new idol without its face covered — sculpted by Mysuru-based Arun Yogiraj — went viral on social media on Friday.

The picture was said to be taken when the idol was in workshop. It was not released by any competent authority or the temple trust. Official images were to be released in public domain only after the consecration on January 22.

Parallelly, the Centre issued a media advisory cautioning them against publishing any false or manipulated content related to the event that could disturb communal harmony and public order.

Meanwhile, PM Modi, the mukhya yajman (main host for the puja) of the consecration, will be joined by 15 other yajmans in the final puja. P10

Sania divorces, Shoaib marries the third time

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

SPECULATIONS on separation between high-profile sports stars Sania MIrza and Shoaib Malik were put to rest when the former Pakistan cricket captain announced his third marriage with popular actor from his country Sana Javed in Karachi on Saturday. He also shared his marriage photographs on social media X.

Sania and Shoaib got married in 2010 and have a son named Izaan, who is five now and lives with Sania. After marriage the two lived in Dubai. According to reports family sources said it was a 'khula', which gives the right to a woman to divorce her husband.

DESERTIFICATION LIKELY TO PARTLY DISPLACE PEOPLE IN INDIA BY 2050: STUDY

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

A study by a Bengaluru-based institute has stated that over 143 million people around the world, most of them in India, could be displaced by desertification by 2050. It also pointed out that effects of soil degradation are particularly severe in the driest places. Around 69% (approximately 227 million hectares) of India's land, falls under arid, semi-arid or sub-humid weather climates. In many of these dry zones, degradation is touching irreversible limits.

The study titled "Soil Restoration and Climate Resilient Agricultural Frameworks to Safeguard India's Food Security" — conducted by Bengaluru-based Firefly Life Sciences, working on next-generation agricultural technologies that are sustainable, ecological and economical — also quoted the 2019-20 Soil Health Survey in India report and said 55% of the country's soil is deficient in nitrogen, 42% in phosphorus and 44% in organic carbon. The study points to severe impact on agriculture, causing a fall in food production, forcing displacement of populations looking for more conducive regions for sustenance.

Ananya Vyas, content and communications strategist at Firefly Life Sciences, said as per the Desertification and Land Degradation Atlas of India, prepared by Indian Space Research Organisation's (ISRO's) Space Application Centre (SAC), 96.4 million hectares (30-32%) of India's total geographical area is undergoing desertification or degradation. Recent estimates peg this figure as high as 174.4 million hectares. CONTINUED ON: P7

Will fully fence Myanmar border, says Amit Shah

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Saturday said the Centre would fence the over 1,600 km long porous India-Myanmar border even as he exuded confidence that India would be free from the Naxal problem within the next three years.

He made the statement on fencing while addressing the passing out parade of 2,551 Assam police commandos here. They were trained by the Army and the police.

"We have a porous border with Myanmar. The Modi government has decided to fence it. The entire border will be protected through fencing similar to that of the Bangladesh border," Shah said.

He also said the Centre reviewed its Free Movement Regime (FMR) agreement with Myanmar and decided to do away with it. India and Myanmar had signed the FMR pact to facilitate the movement of people residing along the international border. It allowed them to travel up to 16 km inside each other's territories without travel documents.

Recently, the Mizoram government expressed opposition to the Centre's move. Chief Minister Laldhoma told Modi the Mizos consider the state's 510 km long border with Myanmar as imposed by the British. The Chins in Myanmar and the Mizos are ethnic cousins, belonging to the Zo community.

Shah did not spell out why the decision was taken but it is a fact that the open border allows insurgents, among others, to sneak in and out of India. Also, the Manipur government suspected the involvement of Myanmar-based Kuki militants in the violence in the state.

Counsellor Ravi Kittur brings together HIV-positive men and women, and gives them a chance at marital happiness

PLAYING MATCHMAKER

FIROZ ROZINDAR @ Vijayapura

INFECTED with HIV by birth, the life of 24-year-old Rashmi (name changed) was a struggle as she had to carry the fear of social stigma. Today, she is leading a happy life, married to Neelakanth (29), who is also HIV-infected and works as a security guard. The couple is profoundly grateful to Ravi Kittur, a counsellor, for helping them find each other.

A resident of Vijayapura city, Rashmi narrated the ordeal she faced before marriage. She lost her parents at an early age and had to depend on relatives for shelter. But later, she got admission in a government hostel, and continued her studies. Having completed B.Sc Nursing, she finally became self-reliant, working as a nursing staffer in a private hospital. "It is no fault of mine. I got HIV because of my parents, yet my own relatives never understood it," she said in anguish. One of the primary reasons she decided to marry was because she wanted to show her family, who had ill-treated her, that she too could lead a normal life.

The story of her husband Neelakanth (name changed) is no different. Hailing from Bagalkot district, he wanted to marry only an HIV-infected girl. "Many HIV-infected men, due to fear of social stigma, don't reveal their infection and marry normal women. After marriage, the wives get HIV infection," he said. Neelakanth said he didn't want to spoil another life.

In search of a life partner, he ended up finding Rashmi through Ravi Kittur. The couple has a two-year-old son who is normal, as Rashmi began taking treatment when she was pregnant, to ensure the baby remains unaffected by the virus.

Rashmi and Neelakanth are among 56 HIV/AIDS infected couples who are married with the help of Kittur, who works as a counsellor at the Anti-Retroviral Therapy (ART) centre of the District Government Hospital.

A mission begins

Way back in 2008, an incident motivated Kittur to take the initiative to turn matchmaker for HIV-infected people. "While counselling infected patients, I realised that many bachelors craved marriage, but are unable to marry. I also understood the urgent need to address this problem. Else, there is the fear that infected persons, to satisfy their sexual desires, may engage in physical contact with others and spread the infection to normal people," he said.

I started collecting details of HIV-infected persons who are interested in marriage. I educated them about the importance of marrying HIV-positive partners

— Ravi Kittur

Kittur started helping HIV-infected persons find suitable partners. Having previously worked among sex workers to prevent HIV/AIDS, finding potential brides and grooms became easy.

"I started collecting details of HIV-infected persons who are interested in marriage. I also educated them about the importance of marrying HIV-positive partners. Finally, my efforts started yielding results as I began matching potential couples. It was in 2008 that the first marriage of an HIV couple was performed," he said.

Since then, there was no looking back as he kept receiving requests from many infected persons and it became a serious activity. A jubilant Kittur claimed that at least 28 such couples now have healthy children.

He said that a majority of couples are ready for inter-caste marriages as they are aware they may not get a partner from the same community. "But in some cases, either the infected man or woman or their family members insist on finding a partner from the same community. That is when I face difficulty as it's not easy to fulfil such conditions. I try to convince them about the practical difficulty and marry a person from a different community," he said.

Besides finding potential partners, Kittur also attempts to dispel myths related to HIV/AIDS, like the fear that infection level increases. With medication, a couple can lead a normal and happy married life, he tells them. "Many couples often ask whether they can have a normal sexual life and normal children. I tell them they can not only can have normal sexual life but also bear healthy and uninfected children, provided they take advice from the doctor and medication," Kittur said.

MATRIMONIAL MEETS ACROSS STATE

After launching the initiative at a personal level, Karnataka State AIDS Prevention Society (KSAPS) joined hands with him to take the initiative to the next level, by organising matrimonial meets across the state. "When people came to know about my efforts, gradually KSAPS was inspired to hold matrimonial meets, where it invited people from different places to find suitable partners," Kittur said. The efforts gained so much popularity that according to him, KSAPS now has a list of over 4,000 infected people who are seeking partners. Kittur said that each marriage gives him divine satisfaction. "I feel so proud when a couple informs me that they have named their son after me," he said, with a sense of well-deserved satisfaction.

Lighting the path to success

Six students of a government school in a village in Belagavi district embark on an entrepreneurial journey

ARSHITHA RAJ @ Bengaluru

HAILING from the agrarian village of Katridaddi in Belagavi district, six students -- Sudeep Hatti, Naveen Dodavad, Gangappa Higani, Sunil Mashevadi, Sudeep Topagani, and Premkumar Hattiholi -- felt that studying can be an arduous task in the face of erratic power supply and fatigued, labouring parents seeking respite in their modest single-room dwellings. This is not unique to them. Children in several rural areas of India grapple with similar challenges.

Since purchasing a rechargeable table lamp is not a feasible option, these six 9th graders from the Government School in Katridaddi conceptualised the 'Light Writer Pen'. This innovative device emits just enough light for children to read their lessons in the dark, without disturbing anybody.

The idea behind this inventive solution took shape when director of the NGO Sukruti Mantra Sansthe, and start-up Cre8 Network Anand Kodagal introduced 'Project Aavishkaar' to government schools in Dharwad. This initiative is aimed at fostering rural entrepreneurship by encouraging students to identify genuine problems within their ecosystem and devise resourceful solutions. Unlike conventional science fair projects, 'Project Aavishkaar' aims to inspire students to ideate marketable innovations.

"Due to frequent power cuts, we found it difficult to study at night. To address this issue, we developed this 'light writer pen' which will allow us to read and write in the dark," said Naveen Dodavad, one of the budding entrepreneurs.

Out of the 100 students who participated in the programme, the 'Light Writer Pen' exhibited significant potential to scale-up in the market. Consequently, Kodagal incubated the project within his startup to commercialise the product, guiding the students to a private tinkering lab to incorporate technology in its development.

"About 70 per cent of students in rural Karnataka drop out of schools after Class 10 because their parents don't have the resources for further education. To encourage entrepreneurship in these areas, it is crucial to prepare the youth at the right age. Students must understand how their ideas can evolve into revenue generating businesses," emphasised Kodagal.

The team pitched the initial version of the pen in a session in Dharwad, earning a reward of Rs 5,000 each. One of the judges at the session even expressed interest in promoting the product in the e-commerce market. Subsequently, the team showcased their innovation at various stages, including the Bengaluru Tech Summit 2023. They also secured Rs 2 lakh from a Bengaluru-based investor.

"Through this project, we've learned how to articulate and present ourselves on stage. With the initial investment of Rs 2 lakh, we plan to develop new models and designs of the pen," stated Sudeep Hatti.

The team independently conducted cost optimisation and market validation, consulting with local storekeepers in and around their village to understand how much they would pay for the product. "Initially, we thought it would be easy to sell our product in nearby shops, to cater to a small target group. However, when we pitched the product in the actual market, we realised the pen could actually be beneficial to not just students but a lot of other people," shared Sunil Mashevadi.

An NGO in Uttar Pradesh has already placed orders for a substantial number of sample products, which if they find useful, could potentially turn into a huge market, noted Kodagal.

"Currently, Cre8 Network manages the business prospects of the product, on behalf of the students, allowing them to focus on the design and functionality. When they come of age, there is a provision for them to separate from the agreement and establish their own entity," he informed.

"With Anand sir's guidance, we have gained insights on how to run a business. With more knowledge and experience, we aspire to expand this business," said Sudeep Topagani.

Presently, an industrial product manufacturer is developing the marketable design of the pen in this self-funded project. Kodagal highlighted the collaborative support received from various quarters, including free access to tinkering labs and discounted manufacturing costs, as a testament to their belief in nurturing young talent.

As several hands join forces to realise the business venture of these six students, the impact expands from boosting their confidence to elevating their standard of living. Looking ahead, the team envisions creating innovative solutions for bigger challenges.

In Ram's name, sales spike for posters, banners

PURAN CHOUDHARY @ Bengaluru

SEVERAL parts of India have turned saffron in Lord Ram's name – to welcome the deity in the newly built temple in Ayodhya. Around 2,000km from the site, Bengaluru is no different, with the sales related to the deity and temple seeing a surge and individuals flocking to shops to buy statuettes and posters of the deity. Retailers told TNSE that their sales in the last few weeks have gone up by 40-50 per cent.

Many are purchasing saffron flags, Sri Ram stickers, miniatures of the temple, T-shirts with the temple picture, posters, banners and other paraphernalia for the D-day on January 22.

Certain areas in the city, like Chickpet, have been painted saffron with flags and decorations. Communities also plan to light diyas on Monday at their shops and residential societies to celebrate the event.

Ranjit Jain, president of Chickpet's Lal Building Retail Association, said, "Around 200 shops are part of our association in Chickpet and including wholesalers, we have around 1,900 dealers. All of them have been experiencing huge sales in the past month. Some sell statuettes, while some deal in posters and stickers. Families are shopping in large quantities." He added that the sellers are experiencing a demand-supply problem, as many did not anticipate such response. The production value has gone up and prices have scaled too.

A drive through the city reveals that many two-wheelers and autorickshaws are moving about flying flags with Ram's name, Omkara or the temple's outline. Mukund, proprietor of Saffron Promoters, said that for the past month, he has been regularly selling over 7,000 flags, most of them with Ram's image. "In the last month alone, we have sold over 40,000 flags. There has been a 200% increase in sales."

Small businesses that are into printing said if only they had anticipated the demand in Bengaluru, production would have been easier. Positive Pulse, an NGO which works for social causes, just two days ago circulated a message on social media for T-shirts with a print of the temple. Within 40 hours, they had an order of 10,000 pieces as the message went viral.

Obesity-induced asthma in kids on the rise

Unhealthy lifestyle like dependence on tech, long sitting hours, avoiding household chores increasing incidence

RISHITA KHANNA @Bengaluru

OBESITY-induced asthma among schoolchildren is on the rise due to various factors, including unhealthy eating habits and prolonged screen time, which calls for sitting for long hours. This form of asthma is linked to inflammation triggered by exposure to pollutants and smoke. Its treatment poses increased challenges when compared to hereditary asthma.

Dr Srikanta JT, Consultant, Paediatric Interventional Pulmonology, Aster CMI Hospital, explained that there are two types of asthma – Type 1, linked to hereditary factors and is often manageable, and Type 2 which is triggered by obesity.

Childhood obesity is frequently associated with inflammation, often caused by exposure to pollutants and smoke, leading to chronic inflammation and Obstructive Sleep Apnea (OSA) in children and at times in adolescents. The primary cause is excessive consumption of junk food, prolonged screen hours and extended sitting that directly contribute to unhealthy weight gain, especially around muscles and cheeks, he said.

The initial symptoms of Type 2 asthma are open-mouth breathing during sleep, snoring and morning and afternoon coughing which are often a consequence of weight gain and inhalation of allergens, Dr Srikanta added.

Dr Narayanaswamy, Paediatrician and founder of Athreya Hospital, said, "Asthma has various causes, but post Covid, obesity has notably risen, impacting children adversely due to the lifestyle changes that were adopted during the pandemic. While 40% of asthma cases are hereditary, a substantial number is triggered by obesity."

He explained that a greater mass necessitates an increased supply of oxygen to support vital tissues. However, as the demand for oxygen rises, organs like the heart and lungs, which maintain their original size, encounter difficulties in delivering oxygen due to the increased presence of body fat. With the body mass increasing, the airways restrict the passage of oxygen, resulting in asthma.

In children, the prevalence is notable because of their reliance on technology, particularly post Covid. Besides, extensive use of technology has led to lesser physical activities and reduced engagement in household chores by children. Coupled with the consumption of foods with preservatives, these factors collectively make it challenging for the body to breathe, resulting in asthma, he said.

Prohibitory orders at PSI exam centres on Jan 23

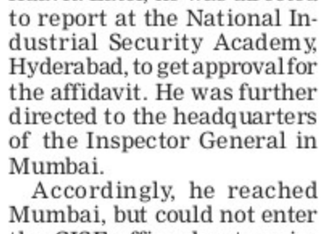
'HUMAN ERROR'

High Court directs CISF to reconsider action against head constable

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru



THE High Court of Karnataka has ruled that an order of the Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) of compulsory retirement from service issued against a head constable for losing some documents is unfair and directed the CISF to reconsider it.

Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed this order on a petition by C Puttappa against whom the order of compulsory retirement from service was issued when he was in CISF Unit, Ahmedabad. The court directed the Commandant, CISF, Kerala, to reconsider the punishment given to Puttappa in 2011.

"It is imperative to acknowledge that the petitioner has admitted to falling asleep at a bus stop resulting in inadvertent loss of documents. Human error is an inherent aspect of any professional setting. Therefore, a compassionate consideration of such instances is essential in maintaining a fair and just workplace. The principle of progressive discipline should be invoked, emphasising the need for proportionate punishment," the court said.

The court upheld the findings and misconduct against Puttappa, but directed the commandant to modify the punishment within three months.

Allowing the petition of Puttappa in 2012, the court quashed the order passed by the Deputy Inspector General (Appellate Authority) and the Inspector General (Revisional Authority), CISF, confirming his compulsory retirement.

The court said the CISF did not specify what vital documents were lost to impose such an action against the petitioner. It also did not place any material to substantiate that those documents could not be reproduced. The petitioner should have faced a departmental inquiry for a minor offence.

Puttappa, who hails from Pillenahalli village in Kadur taluk of Chikkamagaluru district, joined CISF in 1988 as a constable (general duty) in Chennai.

He claimed that on October 14, 2010, he was sent to the CISF Headquarters in Bengaluru to handover service documents along with some papers related to a case.

After visiting Bengaluru, he reported to the CISF Headquarters in Chennai to get approval for a draft counter affidavit. Later, he was directed to report at the National Industrial Security Academy, Hyderabad, to get approval for the affidavit. He was further directed to the headquarters of the Inspector General in Mumbai.

Accordingly, he reached Mumbai, but could not enter the CISF office due to rain. While waiting at a bus stop, he fell asleep because of fatigue as he travelling without a break. When he woke up, he realised that his bag containing documents was missing.

'THINK WHEN YOU ARE OFFERED SOMETHING YOU DIDN'T ASK FOR'

WHILE cybercrimes are increasing with cyber crooks inventing a variety of more complex scams exploiting technology, the police are also picking up pace. In an interaction with the editors and staff of The New Sunday Express, C Vamsi Krishna, Deputy Inspector General of Police, Economic Offences, Criminal Investigation Department, shared how fraudsters are quick to gain the trust of victims, without giving them a chance to think. But people should not fall prey to such shenanigans. He also speaks about the procedural and legal challenges investigators face. Excerpts from the interaction ...

How is the cyber crime situation?
Putting it on a scale is a little difficult as we have to compare. As the figure stands, the numbers are increasing rapidly. Since last year, there has been around a 30-40 per cent rise. When compared with 2021 or 2020, the increase is around 50 to 60 per cent. If we go backwards, it is even more. The rate is exponential. Most of the present crimes are cyber crimes. Traditional crimes are decreasing, but are not completely down. Cyber crimes are bound to increase further because of more technology and easy usage.

A major challenge seems to be awareness. What is the department doing about it?
It is a combination of factors. We cannot say one particular factor is a reason for increasing cyber crimes. In cyber crimes, the change in technology is rapid, so is the change in modus operandi which is varied and diverse. It depends on the creativity of those perpetrating the crimes. They can come up with something like a job fraud or a catchy advertisement, so that people fall prey. It is all about taking advantage of trust to deceive someone and it differs from case to case. When awareness is created, it should be generic as we cannot make it specific as crimes keep changing every day. The easiest advice one can give is that the person should be aware where to cut the line and from where he should start suspecting. That is what is important. Apart from awareness, there are also several other factors.

How do scamsters gain victims' trust so quickly?
They try to push and hurry up their potential victims, without giving them a chance to think. Also, fraudsters take advantage of greed among victims.

Why is it so difficult to crack cybercrimes?
Technology is evolving fast, and each technology has its own complications when it comes to investigation. Some messages come with normal encryption, while others come with end-to-end encryption. A simple step makes things very complicated. For the backend investigator, it is complicated because of technology, encryption, changes in modus operandi and new apps. Jurisdictional issues, legal complication over evidence being available elsewhere like in foreign jurisdictions, privacy issues, accused sitting in some other state. investigators having to go in teams to trace the accused in some remote places and so on. All these factors put together make it complicated, be it a fraud of Re 1 or Rs 1 crore. It is very easy to commit fraud because there are several apps to provide anonymity.

What about laws related to cyber crimes?
Cyber crimes keep evolving and keep changing their nature. The Act should be dynamic as well as applicable for times to come. A very specific Act cannot be made and it is not possible. It has to adjust itself to changing technologies. The Acts should be worded carefully.

In a fraud, when money is transferred into a particular account by a victim, why is it difficult to crack the case? Already, KYC details of fraudsters would be available with the other bank...
Fraudsters do not want money to go into their accounts and create multiple mule accounts. Fake accounts can be created through stolen KYCs or documents which are easily available in the darknet. Unless we have systems in place at every branch, it cannot be ensured. Also, thousands of people in rural areas offer their accounts on rent to such fraudsters. It is difficult to retrieve money from a fake KYC account.

People can also transfer money with a lot of ease because of UPI. Does this also play a role?
The RBI came up with the latest guidelines from January 1. They have changed five rules. Any payment above Rs 2,000 to a new recipient, a window of only four hours is allowed. If one realises that it was a fraud transaction within those four hours, the money will be returned if a request is raised. The problem begins if the money is transferred to a mule account. Sooner a victim raises a complaint, the better it is. Complaints have to be filed immediately on portal cybercrime.gov.in or by making a call to 1930. MHA data reveals that in the last four years, around four lakh people have raised complaints and Rs 1,100 crores has been saved. Not everyone wants to file an FIR. Most people just want their money back, and do not want to file a complaint, which is not right. There are hundreds of complaints on the portal but most of them don't get converted to FIR as victims do not want to file complaints.

What are the profiles of the accused?
Their general age group is between 18 and 35. Most accused are not graduates, while many are just 10th pass. It is easy money and easy crime.

What about child pornography?
This is a major concern. We get a lot of tips from the National Centre for Missing & Exploited Children (NCMEC) and MHA on a daily basis. We follow up all of them. It is a little worrying trend and it is increasing. It is also a social concern.

Recently, there were bomb threats to schools. Is it a difficult case to solve?
The difficulty is because of technology. Perpetrators have access to various facilities, including vanishing emails, temporary emails, VPNs and more, which are not illegal. But putting these into illegal use is where the problem starts. The accused search for a particular service which does not leave a log or data, and they search across the world as there are no boundaries for technology. But for an investigating agency, the regular procedure has to be followed. Unless these complications are removed, investigations are bound to be complicated.

How well are policemen trained to handle cyber crime cases?
Training is not a one-day affair, especially when it comes to cyber crimes. This has to be ingrained into everyone, both the instructor and the person being tutored. The situation in Karnataka is far better than other states. Most policemen are trained in level 1. At CID, we train policemen in three levels -- L1, L2 and L3, which is the most advanced. Today's L1 content may be outdated in a couple of years as technology keeps evolving. A lot of relearning is needed to catch up with technology and the changing modus of criminals. VPNs and encryption levels are changing. Training has to be continuous. We need to keep updating our content. In the last one year, at CID alone, we have trained over 30,000 policemen. Apart from CID, training happens in training departments, police academies, police training colleges, district levels and online also.

Does a tech background help investigators?
Yes, definitely. It helps in understanding quickly,. and that is the only difference.

In conventional crime cases, the police have a deadline. Is that the case with ransomware incidents?
Ransomware cases vary based on factors such as the type of ransomware, backup timelines and malware characteristics. Investigation feasibility relies on adherence to guidelines, governing data backup methods and specifying how and where backups should be done.

Do you believe that the evolving nature of cybercrime and corresponding training adjustments may alter traditional policing methods?
Policing extends beyond technical aspects, such as information and comprehensive analysis of crime methods. While technical expertise is crucial, a thorough understanding of laws is equally essential for handling each case effectively.

What is your take on the use of the dark web in the state?
The dark web is accessible to anyone. Criminals specifically favour its use because of its ease of access through open-source networks. The challenge for us is to trace individuals because of encryption.

How can people ensure that their contact numbers are not shared when providing it at different places, including banks?
The forthcoming Data Protection Act stipulates that sharing data requires explicit consent, with a mandatory disclosure of the intended purpose. Entities handling data must inform users about its specific use and place where it will be used.

Cooperative banks engaging in fraudulent practices against customers constitutes an economic offence. What do you believe is the underlying reason for such crimes?
While regulations and procedures are already established, there is a deficiency in enforcement. If the rules are diligently implemented, such occurrences can be mitigated.

What are some dos and don'ts to avoid falling victim to cybercrime?
Question everything you see and hear. Take a moment to question why someone is offering you money or a job without you initiating the request. Before using mobile applications, thoroughly review their privacy policies to understand proper usage rather than learning through trial and error. Many reported cybercrime cases involve exploiting real identities and fake cryptocurrency platforms. Be alert if someone contacts you claiming to be a relative or friend. Verify their identity before trusting them. Don't believe everything you encounter on social media without verification. Mistakes often happen in moments of haste or urgency. Stay informed about online payment systems and fraud trends to protect yourself. It's crucial to remain vigilant and updated in the rapidly evolving landscape of online security. To avoid falling victim to cyber threats, ensure that all your applications are regularly updated. Download and use apps only from trusted and authenticated websites. Refrain from clicking on any suspicious links or downloading content from unknown sources. Additionally, be cautious when receiving video calls, as they may pose a risk of sextortion.

What is the recommended timeframe for reporting, and where should one report such incidents?
There is no specific golden hour. The sooner the incident is reported, the better. If someone falls victim to fraud, it is essential to report it promptly upon realisation. Victims can contact 1930, the national cyber crime helpline number, or visit cybercrime.gov.in. Reporting promptly facilitates connecting with financial institutions linked to the fraud, enabling the freezing of funds. Additionally, contacting the jurisdictional police to file an FIR is crucial. It's also important to get in touch with the bank immediately to block the account, preventing any further transfers and minimising the risk of additional fraud associated with that particular bank account.

EXPRESS Dialogues

Finding winnable candidates — Cong's first big task

THE ruling Congress, which has set itself an ambitious target of winning a maximum number of Lok Sabha seats in Karnataka, seems to be facing a Herculean task of finding 'winnable' candidates in all the constituencies. Its rival, the BJP, also faces a similar challenge in many segments though its candidates are banking on Prime Minister Narendra Modi's charisma to win the polls.

Congress got the head-start over other parties in starting the exercise of short-listing the candidates and has decided to go with a planned scientific survey to select its candidates. In the first meeting of the Pradesh Election Committee (PEC) held in Bengaluru on Friday, some senior leaders are said to have expressed displeasure over the names suggested by ministers appointed as observers to 28 Lok Sabha seats. The ministers had suggested the names after consultations with the local leaders.

Indicating the arduous task ahead, a Congress insider explains that except for eight to ten seats, the party is finding it difficult to identify winnable candidates in the remaining segments. Unlike the assembly polls, there is no structured approach to strengthening the party organisation with a focus on winning the Lok Sabha polls. Not that there is any dearth of leaders. It has plenty of mass leaders in every region of the state. But, hardly any of them prefer to switch to central politics, especially when the party's prospects at the national level do not look promising. So, in every election, they look for new candidates in many segments.

In 2019, many top leaders, including Mallikarjuna Kharge, Veerappa Moily, and KH Muniyappa lost the polls. The party ended up winning just one out of 28 seats, although it was in power in the state then.

Compared to 2019, the party is in a much better position now. It has the proven leadership of AICC president Mallikarjuna Kharge, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, and DyCM & State Congress president DK Shivakumar. In Karnataka, the Congress will largely depend on the state government's performance to win Lok Sabha polls. A large section of people in the state are benefiting from the government's guarantees.

Apart from focusing on implementing guarantees, the government seems to be working on every possible aspect to better its prospects and reach out to people from all sections. To woo the Lingayat community, the government considered the community seers and leaders' demands and declared 12th century social reformer Basavanna as the Cultural Icon of the state. In the case of internal reservation among the Scheduled Castes, the state government played it safe by putting the issue in the Centre's court. Both these decisions were taken earlier this week.

By hinting at a possible cabinet reshuffle after the Lok Sabha polls, the Congress leadership is also sending out a clear message to its ministers that they cannot afford to lose 'winnable' seats. Appointments of the heads of various boards and corporations are also expected to be done keeping in mind the leaders' ability to help the party in the LS polls. Congress is trying to do everything it can and not leave anything to chance.

On its part, the BJP may have a slight advantage over the Congress in the Lok Sabha polls as the elections are fought mainly on national issues and are likely to be centered around Prime Minister Narendra Modi's leadership. The party will also try to leverage the Ram temple inauguration in Ayodhya.

But, the BJP has its own set of challenges. It has to ensure that the party works as one cohesive unit. For now, the party seems to have managed to put a lid on the internal dissension.

According to BJP insiders, state party president BY Vijayendra is personally assessing the situation in all 28 seats before discussing the names of potential candidates with the central leaders. Since many BJP MPs have declared that they will not be contesting the elections, the party needs to find winnable candidates in those seats, apart from any possible replacements in other constituencies.

After its bitter experience of announcing the candidates for the assembly polls at the last minute, this time the BJP is said to be keen on getting the lists approved and announced early so the candidates get enough time to focus on seats. Getting that clarity becomes all the more important as BJP and Janata Dal (Secular) (JD(S)) will be fighting the polls together.

Former Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda and JD (S) state president HD Kumaraswamy's repeated remarks in the last few days on making Modi PM again indicate the regional party's keenness on ensuring vote transfer, especially in the Old Mysuru region.

For now, the parties are laying the groundwork for the big battle. A clear picture will emerge once the candidates are finalised.

State suffered heavy losses due to finance panel: CM

ENS @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA has suffered heavy revenue loss on account of the Finance Commission's recommendations in the past, which needs to be challenged before the 16th Finance Commission, said Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday.

He added that "Karnataka's share in tax devolution was reduced from 4.713 per cent under the 14th Finance Commission, to 3.647 per cent under the 15th Finance Commission". Due to this, the state was not given adequate resources.

The CM was speaking at the national seminar on Fiscal Federalism: Challenges before the 16th Finance Commission, held by Ramaiah University of Applied Sciences (RUAS). He reiterated that Karnataka has experienced the biggest cut among the states, a reduction of 1.066 per cent. The current approach considers the income distance, as per which, Karnataka loses out due to the lower distance from the highest per capita income state.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah addresses delegates at the seminar in Bengaluru on Saturday | ALLEN EGENUSE J

"It is important to consider the fact that high per capita income levels arise mainly from the Bengaluru Urban district at Rs 6,21,131. This approach has deprived Karnataka of adequate resource transfers to address the low per capita income of certain districts, such as Belagavi, that have only per capita income of Rs 1,24,998," Siddaramaiah said, urging the Finance Commission to make necessary adjustments for the intra-state per capita income differentials, while arriving at the income distance in making the recommendations.

Highlighting Bengaluru's contribution in taxes, the CM stated that it is rather "ironic that the second highest tax paying state in the country does not get adequate reward for its contribution". He added that the state should be incentivised for its efficiency and fiscal performance and suggested that the commission should focus on the equity concerns of states.

The CM also spoke about the glaring imbalances in human development with Bengaluru Urban sharing the first position in the HDI value of 0.738.

35k devotees from Karnataka to visit Ayodhya after January 31

ENS @ Bengaluru

OVER 35,000 devotees of Lord Ram from Karnataka will visit Ayodhya from January 31 to March 25. BJP state president BY Vijayendra said 25 special trains have been arranged to facilitate the visits. The devotees are taking care of their expenses for the six-day visit to Ayodhya, he said.

Speaking to the media, the BJP leader said the devotees travelling to Ayodhya will be given an identity card with a QR code. While the special trains start from different places in the state, arrangements have been made for providing food and accommodation for the devotees in Ayodhya, and a Kannada helpline will also be made available, he said. He added that 1,500 devotees will travel in each train.

Former general secretary of the BJP state unit Siddaraju has been appointed as the coordinator, he said. The BJP leader urged the state government to declare a holiday on January 22, the day of the Ram Mandir's consecration in Ayodhya.

Court stays Ibrahim bloc from using JDS symbol

BENGALURU: The ninth city civil and sessions court here on Saturday gave a stay against JDS leader CM Ibrahim and seven others from using the party symbol, holding press conferences, using the letterhead and also appointing office-bearers. JDS, represented by its general secretary AP Ranganatha, had moved court to give directions to the defendants, including Ibrahim. The judge issued the ad-interim injunction till the next hearing on February 12, 2024. Advocate Nishanth AV, appearing on behalf of Ranganatha, made the appeal. "The plaintiff is directed to comply with the mandatory provisions of Order 39 Rule 3 of C.P.C", the order stated. ENS

Internal quota: CM accuses Centre of misleading Dalits

ENS @ Bengaluru

REFERRING to the Centre's move to form a high-level committee under the chairmanship of the Cabinet Secretary to review the internal reservation for Scheduled Castes, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah termed it as a ploy to mislead the Dalit community.

"This seems to be nothing more than a ploy to mislead the Dalit community, as it is clear that BJP has no genuine concern for them. The Justice Usha Mehra Commission, also constituted by the Centre for the same purpose, had concluded that sub-categorisation of SCs and providing internal reservation is the only solution through a constitutional amendment," the CM stated.

Questioning the need for another high-level committee, the CM said if the Centre truly intends to fulfil the demands for internal reservation for SCs, it should present a bill to amend Section 341 of the Constitution in Parliament, get it approved, and implement the reservation quickly. He accused the BJP leaders of double standards. Former minister Govind Karjol, a senior Dalit leader, is spreading misinformation as he is following the lines dictated by the RSS, which is anti-Dalit, Siddaramaiah alleged.

Owaisi expresses anguish over Ram Mandir inauguration

RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI
@Kalaburagi

NATIONAL president of All-India Majlis-e-Ittehadul-Muslimeen Asaduddin Owaisi on Saturday expressed his anguish over the inauguration of Ram Mandir at Ayodhya on January 22. Speaking to the media, he said Babri Masjid and its surrounding area was systematically taken away from Indian Muslims and the inauguration of Ram Mandir at that place is a symbolic of showing Muslims their place in India.

He said Muslims offered namaz at Babri Masjid for over 500 years and when Govind Ballabh Pant was the chief minister of Uttar Pradesh, idols were placed inside the Masjid. "At that time, KK Nair was the collector of Ayodhya. He closed the Masjid and allowed Hindus to worship in that place. Ram Mandir was not in existence when VHP was formed. Mahatma Gandhi, a great devotee of Sri Ram, never mentioned about a Ram Mandir in Ayodhya during his lifetime."

The AIMIM leader said, "Had GB Pant removed those idols from the Masjid and had the Masjid not been demolished in 1992, we would not have to see things how they are today. Even the Supreme Court doesn't say anywhere that Babri Masjid was constructed by demolishing any temple. Our people have sacrificed to protect Babri Masjid. How can we forget it?"

Modi's temple tour continues with Srirangam, Rameshwaram

PM takes holy baths in 22 theerthams; participates in Ramayan Path

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Tiruchy/Ramanathapuram

ON the second day of his three-day visit to Tamil Nadu, Prime Minister Narendra Modi visited Srirangam Ranganathaswamy temple in Tiruchy and Ramanathaswamy temple in Ramanathapuram on Saturday.

Ahead of Modi's visit to Ranganathaswamy temple in the morning, all the 'gopurams' were closed for public access, and security was stepped up. Modi arrived at the Tiruchy International Airport, where he was received by Law Minister S Regupathy and other officials. Being his usual self, Modi stood on the left side of the moving car with the door half open waving to people. Around 11.15 am, he reached Srirangam temple, where he spent an hour and 40 minutes. It may be noted that Modi is the first Prime Minister to visit the shrine while being in office.

He was accorded a traditional reception with 'Poorna Kumba' respect by the temple. After 'darshan', Modi sat at the Kamba Ramayana Arangangam where Tamil scholars and musicians recited verses from the text. It is believed that the original Kamba Ramayanam was first recited by poet Kambar at this place. Those who performed include singer 'Sikkil' C Gurucharan, Tamil scholar from Sri Lanka 'Ilangai' Jeyaraman, Tamil scholar T Gnanasundaram, Kambar enthusiast Priya Ramachandran, and instrumentalists Charulatha and Charulatha Ramanujam. The temple elephant, Andal, stole the whole show when it played a mouth organ instrument, taught by its trainer Rajesh.

In the afternoon, Modi arrived at Pekkarumbu area in Rameswaram by MI 17 helicopter, and proceeded to Ramanathaswamy temple by road. He first took a dip in 'agni theertham' sea and went to the temple by battery car. He also took bath in all 22 'theerthams' (wells) inside the temple and collected 'holy water' from them. Adorned in saffron, Modi walked around the 'praharams' after 'dharshan'.

Modi also took part in 'Ramayan Path' and 'Bhajan Sandhya' at the temple. Several scholars from various parts of the nation recited Ramayana in different languages on a single stage, which Modi listened to for over an hour. He then proceeded to Ramakrishna Mutt in Rameswaram where he would stay at night. On Sunday, Modi will visit the Kothandaramar temple and Arichal Munai in Dhanushkodi.

Adopt ecology-based designs to combat air pollution: Prof

PURAN CHOUDHARY
@Bengaluru

CLEAN air-centric policies are the need of the hour and India needs to let go of the dated concept of building cities based on "engineering designs" instead of "ecology-based designs", which must be adopted, said Sachchidanand Tripathi, professor, Department of Sustainable Energy Engineering, Indian Institute of Technology (IIT), Kanpur.

Prof Tripathi is also the winner of the Shanti Swarup Bhatnagar Award by the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research and a recent laureate for the Infosys Prize, 2023, for developing a low-cost sensor for monitoring air quality.

In a conversation with TNIE, Tripathi highlighted the major sources of pollution in the country that are increasing greenhouse emissions. Industries, automobiles, burning of crop residue or household-related fuel burning, require policy-level intervention and a switch to green measures. He strongly advocated the ethical use of AI and ML to monitor sources in real time to improve the tasks of regulators.

"If we shift to PNG, CNG, solar PV and green hydrogen, which makes a versatile mix of energy portfolio, industries and vehicular emissions can be cut down PM 2.5 and there will be a 40 per cent reduction in ambient pollution," he added.

Citing an example of one of the biggest industries in the country, Tripathi said, "To make steel, industries burn steel ore with coal, in which a part comes out as carbon dioxide, and a part as soot particles– leading to emissions of soot and ash. To go green, steel can be produced using piped petroleum natural gas or using hydrogen, making the entire steel industry clean without any emissions."

Prof Tripathi has created and deployed over 1,105 large-scale sensors -- building an air quality network in Bihar and Uttar Pradesh using a mobile laboratory for hyper-local measurements of pollution. Data is generated and analysed using AI and ML for effective air quality management and citizen awareness. This data can help the government navigate sources of pollution to introduce robust solutions.

These unique sensors are low-cost and will soon be getting an update to predict the levels shortly. "I have a unique problem at hand. The Bihar government is developing a State Capital Region (SCR). Using the quality data from the sensors deployed we must suggest a plan for the region, where to place roads, industries and residential areas to reduce the impact of pollution," he explained.

His team is working on building airsheds and micro airsheds, using the sensors. Explaining more, he said, "We want to build air quality managements (AQMs) that just don't record one city but also its neighbouring areas. Pollution doesn't happen in silos, there are no borders for the quality of air. The tool will give out results related to these sheds and if these are managed well we will have larger benefits. Using the same techniques micro airsheds can also be identified."

95% land could be degraded by 2050: Study

Ananya Vyas told TNIE: "Due to increasing use of chemicals and agricultural stress, soil deterioration is being recorded in most places even in regions of Punjab and Haryana, which are agricultural belts. Also the north-eastern states of India are seeing changes in soil condition due to a shift from pristine lands to agriculture."

The report stated excesses of intensive industrial agriculture practices are stripping soils of vital nutrients and putting stress on scarce resources such as water and fossil fuels. "If this trend continues, 95% of Earth's land areas could become degraded by 2050, potentially causing a fall of 30% in world food production against a projected demand that requires a 50% increase in production," according to the study.

Nandita Abreo, founder-director of Firefly Life Sciences, said due to weakened soil, India's agricultural production is vulnerable to climate change and soil degradation can pose a severe threat to the country's future food security.

The report argued that soil restoration and climate resilience need to be put at the forefront of India's agricultural paradigm and policy. It also listed the interconnected, holistic set of practices required to put soil restoration and climate resilience at the core of agricultural systems that include soil management, water management, integrated pest management, livestock management and technology integration.

Abreo said: "It is important to restore soil by reviving traditional practices while also leveraging innovative modern technologies. True 'climate resilient' farming must account for the trade-offs between the pillars of productivity, adaptation and climate mitigation, and strive to find a context-specific balance between these three core objectives of soil restoration and climate resilience."

Expectant parents push for 'muhurat deliveries'

BANDHAVI ANNAM @ Guntur

WHILE the nation is gearing up for the consecration ceremony of Ram Lalla at the Ayodhya temple on January 22, expectant parents are fervently seeking Caesarean section 'muhurat deliveries', believing that the babies born on this day will embody the qualities of Lord Ram.

However, not every obstetrician is in favour of entertaining such requests. Stressing the importance of prioritising health and safety over auspicious dates, superintendent of the Guntur Government General Hospital Dr Kiran Kumar opined that birthing is a natural process and it unfolds on its own.

"I think we should not disturb it. A baby needs 39 weeks in the womb because important organs like its brain, lungs, and liver need time to develop. So, we do not recommend scheduling deliveries for any specific day or time," he added.

According to doctors, Muhurat deliveries are not new. Expectant mothers often consult priests for an auspicious date and time, and make delivery requests accordingly, they explained. Some believe that an auspicious birth time positively influences the baby's personality and spirituality, further providing strength to cope with life stresses.

A senior obstetrician at a multi-speciality hospital in Guntur city revealed that their hospital has received over 10 such requests from women who are due to give birth in the last week of January and the first week of February. While some hospitals have made special arrangements to accommodate such requests, others are refusing the same to prevent overburdening facilities and risks to mothers and infants.

Three-month deadline to geo-tag trees in K'taka: Min

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

To prevent illegal felling of trees, ensure afforestation and increase tree cover, forest, environment and ecology minister Eshwar B Khandre on Saturday directed the officials to geo-tag trees in the state, especially ones with high value like sandalwood, rose and teak.

He said that the exercise should be completed within three months in all the areas under the control of the Karnataka forest department, adjoining villages, revenue lands and other government lands. He directed the forest department officials that the department maintain records of the trees beat wise and village wise. He also said that a report of the same, zone wise, should be submitted to him, within the stipulated time.

The decision has also been taken after hundreds of trees have been axed illegally in Belur, Nandagodanahalli, Sakleshpur and Idagundi. "To control deforestation in the name of various activities like growing ginger, this decision has been taken. The DCs have also been instructed to ensure that the trees are geo- tagged. It has also been decided that anti-poaching teams will be deployed to prevent timber illegal felling and smuggling of timber.

Conservation of valuable trees in forests in government land, estates and patta lands leased by forest department is a challenge for the department. Trees cannot be axed without prior permission as per the Tree Protection Act," he said.

Elephants found resting near Roerich Estate

Bengaluru: Karnataka forest department officials are having a tough time driving away a herd of elephants that has wandered out of Banneghatta National Park, since Friday. On late Friday evening, the elephants were seen near Roerich Estate on Kanakapura Road. On Saturday, they were driven away by the forest officials and are resting in Khoday property. Deputy Conservator of Forests, Bengaluru, Ravindra Kumar N said, "A herd of elephants has roamed out of BNP. Around five elephants are now camping at Khoday's property, which is around 500 acres. They will be driven away by the foresters towards Bhootanahali and then to Banneghatta National Park."

Karnataka to soon have Slender Loris Community Conservation Reserve

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

Karnataka will soon have India's first Slender Loris Community Conservation Reserve. The forest department is working on the proposal, with the help of locals of Nagawalli in Tumkuru to declare, the area falling under the seven gram panchayats spread across 7 sq kms in the area as a community conservation reserve.

The proposal has been made in wake of the rapidly dwindling population. "The government will take the final decision. Due to the awareness, locals have been working independently in protecting the species. The land that is being proposed will be owned by by the locals, but protection will be by the department. Priority is species protection and when ever illegal activities happen, we will be able to act the locals will also be involved," Tumkuru, Deputy Conservator of Forests, Anupama H, told TNIE.

Slender Loris is listed under Schedule-1 of the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972. It is illegally traded and poached for black magic. Tamil Nadu is the first state to have a dedicated Slender Loris Wildlife Sanctuary in Madurai.

Karnataka has only one community conservation reserve- Kokkre Bellur Community Conservation Reserve- in Maddur taluk, Mandya. It is also known as the Pelicanry of Karnataka. It is the traditional nesting site of Spot billed Pelicans (Pelecanus Philippensis) and Painted Storks (Mycteria leucocephala). These have been protected by villagers themselves.

For many years, the areas in Tumkuru, comprising, Nagawalli, Hebbur, Devarayanadurga state forest and areas around Tumkuru city, were the safe haven for Slender Loris. Many students, wildlife enthusiasts, activists, families and youth visit the areas to be a part of the Slender Loris sighting trails, organised by conservationists. But now with their drastically dwindling population, conservationists with the help of members of gram panchayats drew up a proposal and submitted it to the forest department to declare the area as a community conservation reserve.

"Their population has been on the decline ever since their natural habitat has been destroyed for agricultural works and creating fences. The bamboo clusters have been removed and streams have also started to dry up. Farmers are increasingly using pesticides, insecticides and rat or rodent repellents. This is effecting the Slender Loris that eat them. Widening of Kunigal-Tumkuru Road has also effected their habitat. Farmers have dug borewells and have drawn electricity lines to pump water. The cables are also posing threat to the animals in the canopies," B V Gundappa, Chairman of Wildlife Aware Nature, Tumkuru, and an expert on Slender Loris, said.

AI cams in Kerala caught over 32L traffic violations

ANILKUMAR T @Kochi

THE AI-enabled cameras, which were switched on across the state last June, have detected a whopping 32 lakh traffic rule violations in less than six months.

According to the data accessed from the motor vehicle department, a total of 32,88,657 challans were issued to motorists for violations caught on the 726 AI cameras installed across the state between June 5 and December 26, 2023. The data showed that an average 18,000 violations were detected by the cameras daily.

Seat belt rule violation topped the list, with a staggering 18.22 lakh motorists penalised for the offence during the period. Of these, around 8.92 lakh were instances of co-passengers not wearing seat belts. As many as 45,214 two-wheeler riders were charged for carrying more than the stipulated number of passengers at a time.

The state government had launched the AI cameras with the hope that they would help bring down traffic violations and enhance road safety. However, the large number of violations raises doubts on whether the cameras have had the desired impact. An official with the motor vehicle department said the number of violations detected by the AI cameras has shown an upward trajectory. "Initially, if the AI cameras detected an average of nearly 10,000 violations daily, the number has now almost touched 20,000. Due to some technical glitches, 51 cameras are currently offline. Once they also go live, the number of violations is likely to go past 20,000 a day," the official said.

At the same time, Transport Commissioner S Sreejith said the AI cameras have helped reduce the accident death rate in the state. "The number of road accidents remains the same even after the installation of AI cameras," said Sreejith.

New KSDL products rolled out

ENS @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday rolled out 21 new products manufactured by state-owned Karnataka Soaps & Detergents Limited (KSDL). The products brought out under the "Mysore Sandal Wave" range include 10 varieties of premium Mysore Sandal soaps, three types of shower gels, six novelties of soap kits, hand wash, and drinking water.

The CM appreciated the company's competitive spirit and lauded Industries Minister and KSDL chairman MB Patil's initiative to expand the market presence of its products.

Patil said initiatives have been taken to increase the turnover to Rs 3,000 crore in two years, which currently stands at around Rs 1,400 crore. The production volume has increased by 25% in the last eight months, he added.

"New technology is being adopted to prevent fake manufacturing of products. In addition, focus is on capitalising on the demand for KSDL products internationally and to increase the international turnover from Rs 19 crore to Rs 25 crore this year" he explained.

ATMANIRBHAR PSUs: NOISE AND SIGNALS FROM SHARES SURGE

THE Roman philosopher Seneca once said that luck is when preparation meets opportunity. The collective of daring and prescient investors who deployed their savings to invest in the shares of public sector enterprises are revelling at that intersection of fortune.

The timeline of data spells out the phenomenon eloquently. Consider this: in September 2020, the government offered the shares of Mazgaon Dock Shipbuilders at ₹145 per share. The value of 100 shares bought at ₹14,500 is now ₹236,500. Fortune also favoured the brave who invested in Rail Vikas Nigam and in IRFC. For instance, 100 shares of RVNL bought at ₹1,900 in the March 2019 IPO are worth ₹32,000, and 100 shares of IRFC bought at ₹2,600 at the IPO are worth ₹17,600. The math of the returns on the investments is mind-boggling.

There is much noise about valuations and sustainability—about the lack of liquidity, the monopolistic status of the enterprises. All of which is worthy of attention. That said, the surge in PSU shares valuations between January 2023 and 2024 has left many wonderstruck. As per NSE data, IRFC gained 349 percent, Chennai Petroleum Corporation 322 percent, RVNL 257 percent, PFC 248 percent and IRCON 242 percent.

Indeed, while the benchmark Nifty50, which includes private sector companies, has posted a gain of around 76 percent, the shares of 25 PSEs, over a third of the universe of listed PSUs, have recorded gains of over 100 percent in market value. And the enterprises are from different sectors—from railways and capital goods to power and oil majors, and even government-owned banks nudging 52-week highs.

Interestingly, during a debate in parliament in August 2023, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, defending the economic policies of his government, quipped he had a guru mantra for stock market investors—to invest in shares of public sector enterprises. The remark presumably added to the momentum of investor interest.

It is not just Indians but also foreign portfolio investors who have queued up for PSU shares—the holding of FPIs in REC is at 20 percent, 18 percent in PFC and 17 percent in NTPC. The total market capitalisation of listed public sector units has shot up by over ₹20 lakh crore in 12 months and was over ₹52 lakh crore on Friday.

Money makes the mare go. New investors and domestic savings seeking returns propelled the rise in PSU shares. On average, over 1.5 million new demat accounts were opened in 2023, taking the total to 139 million and total assets under mutual funds grew from ₹40 lakh crore to over ₹50 lakh crore. Critical to the rise of the PSU stocks, though, has been the government spending on critical physical infrastructure, eye-catching push for green energy and what The Economist called an eye-watering big transport upgrade.

India added around 28 km of roads per day; the national highway network is now 1.46 lakh km. The railways are laying 15 km of lines per day—in 2023, India added 5,200 km of new tracks and in the past decade over 38,000 km of the broad gauge network has been electrified. In power, India added 97,501 MW in conventional and 96,282 MW in renewable generation in the past decade, taking the total generation to 425,536 MW. The expansion of power, roads and railways has fuelled orders and ramped up revenues of other PSUs who are contracted to supply equipment and components. The PSUs starring in the stock markets command dominance in the sectors and are beneficiaries of the spending drive to create capacity and connectivity.

A report by CRISIL points out that India spent ₹67 lakh crore on infrastructure since 2017 and could spend as much as ₹143 lakh crore in the next seven years. This is required to expand employment and growth. The question facing Budget 2024 and the medium-term future is how the spending will be funded. Rising government spend has implications for the cost of capital, incidence of taxation and private consumption. Growth driven by capital expenditure is governed by the statute of limitations on sustainability of borrowings for expenditure.

Budget 2023-24 estimated that this year the government would borrow about ₹4,800 crore per day and pay around ₹2,900 crore per day in interest costs. Over a fifth or 59 of the 248 operating PSUs are incurring losses of around ₹14,500 crore per year. Privatisation, which was mentioned in Budget 2021, is daunted by questions haunting the political economy. It is true that the pathways for growth—whether digital or physical—must be laid and paid for by government. Equally, how this is funded has implications.

Investor confidence in PSUs and the larger economy calls for trimming of the deficit and the cost of servicing debt. Government ownership ranges between 70 and 96 percent in many of the valued enterprises. The rise in PSU valuations represents an opportunity to recast the narrative of growth. The government could garner around ₹4 lakh crore by diluting its holdings to between 51 and 74 percent, depending on strategic objectives. As it mulls its approach, it may well revisit the idea of creating a fund—a Bharat Investment Trust—to park its assets to be leveraged via disinvestments, privatisation and issue of exchange-traded funds for growth.

GOVT TANKS TREACHEROUS THINK TANKS

POWER & POLITICS

INTELLECTUAL infiltration is inevitably ideologically influential. For decades, the luxurious Left was right in India, where junkets and jams went together in the marketing sandwich of power and pelf. Last week, the Modi government pulled the rug from under the Centre for Policy Research's funding. Leftist liberal think tanks (TTs), with shallow thinking and deep pockets, comprise the Opinion Market Gang which was lording it over academia and sections of the media with socialist thinking and a business class conscience ever since Indira Gandhi hijacked India's thought stream to please her Soviet masters.

NGOs are not just fattened calves but also holy cows. Under the umbrella of deals, delusions and divisions, they form a privileged club of clandestine persuaders, masterly movers and suspicious shakers. Rulers may make or break laws, but TTs direct governance through research papers thick with academic jargon. In the ideological race between political teams, TTs are the back-seat drivers.

Last week, the 50-year-old Centre for Policy Research (CPR) was accused by the BJP government of misusing the statutory permissions to receive funds from India and abroad, and permanently cancelled the official permission. Late last year, IT officials had visited the NGO's premises for a survey and collected many documents of interest. The CPR's current budget of ₹30 crore comes from Indian and global institutions, and governments. CPR President and Chief Executive Yamini Aiyar protested, "The basis of this decision is incomprehensible and disproportionate, and some of the reasons given challenge the very basis of the functioning of a research institution." The CPR has already challenged the orders in the courts.

CPR's fund-raising capacities have raised questions on the operations of its numerous avatars. It was set up in 1973 when Indira Gandhi was the prime minister and allotted land in the most exclusive and strategically located diplomatic habitat of Chanakya Puri. CPR was a permanent parking lot for semi-retired but well-connected civil servants, academics, former defence officials and diplomats. Its mandate was to provide the government with ideas and remedies to handle knotty policy patterns. Over the years, it expanded its academic and geographical space to cover 30-odd disciplines. Subjects listed on its website include agriculture, sanitation, land rights, international and strategic relations, federalism, education, environmental laws, governance, accountability and public finance and, of course, politics. For the past 50 years, it mostly hired people connected with Left-leaning bigwigs. According to its critics, Jawaharlal Nehru is its ideological and sociological icon.

Think tanks form a privileged club of clandestine persuaders, masterly movers and suspicious shakers. To avoid extinction, they must think Bharat and behave like Bharatiyas

It is still Washington DC's most trusted brown nose. A causal dekko of the names of visiting scholars and research subjects during the past decade reveals CPR's fault-finding mission to discredit the current dispensation and influence gullible young researchers. No wonder that its current Chairperson Meenakshi Gopinath, in her speech on the TT's 47th anniversary, boasted that it is "a deeply liberal institution in the marketplace of ideas—CPR is a platform, not merely an organisation". After the government's action, its President Yamini Aiyar revealed the TT's establishment connect: "CPR is a 50-year-old institution that has a proud legacy of deep contributions to India's policy-making ecosystem, and over the past five decades has been home to many distinguished faculty, researchers and members of the board."

India's illiberal exoskeleton is being slowly picked apart. Perhaps, CPR's addiction to influence the "policy-making ecosystem" irked the government. Most of its board members, including the chairperson and the president, are known to be anti-Sangh Parivar. CPR tried to change its ideological roadmap after Atal Bihari Vajpayee formed the government in 1998. It brought on board retired officials who were both liberals and close to the PMO and Vajpayee's Principal Secretary Brajesh Mishra. Once the Vajpayee government was shown the door, CPR reverted to its original tendencies. Since then, a large number of visiting faculty members and scholars have been writing critical articles against the Modi government. Now the government has fingered CPR for financing political agitations against its policy initiatives.

Significantly, the TT's website hides details about its past management, which if revealed, could expose an anti-nationalist nature. Its major funders are the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, Ford Foundation, the UK's Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office, the government of Andhra Pradesh, Hewlett Foundation, MacArthur Foundation, National Mission for Clean Ganga, Piramal Swasthya Management and Research Institute, Rohini Nilekani and the US department of state. Most of these outfits hate Modi.

To avoid extinction, the TT species must think Bharat and behave like Bharatiyas. Though the BJP government has the organisation in its sights, senior babus and some Union ministries have been participating in its activities. For example, Suman Bery, before joining the NITI Aayog, took an active part in the CPR Dialogues. The jal shakti ministry has opened its coffers to the TT. But the saffron establishment feels that CPR abhors giving space to nationalist scholars and bestows favours on individuals considered close to powerful people in Modi's government. The PMO and the home ministry couldn't be hoodwinked. They have been scrutinising CPR's research papers, foreign visits by scholars and the affiliations of foreign academics invited to address its Indian audience.

CPR isn't the only TT which has caught the government's attention. Most of the 500-odd TTs functioning in India are packed with individuals who got stomach ache after trying to digest the new directorate's sociological victuals. The New Delhi-based India International Centre and its variations are also controlled by old Nehruvian loyalists for whom Marx and Lenin are dogma. These institutions are controlled by the Leftist elite with foreign degrees and powerful pedigrees. Entry and invitations to join them are selective and secretive. Now they rue the demolition of their intellectual mentorship which used to shape the national narrative. They had captured the system and defied the legal framework with immunity and impunity. India was their notional office. Global lobbying was their karmabhoomi.

CPR's fate is a wakeup call for all the glamorous TTs, including the upstarts who entered the scene after 2014. With its bold action, the government has decided CPR will be denied cardiopulmonary resuscitation, the other CPR, as it drowns in self pity. To survive, TTs should learn the motto 'TBTA'—Think Before They Act. Or else, the government is sure to read them the Riot Act.

THE SHIFTING SHAPE OF MYTHOLOGICALS

FILMS have often travelled back to the past for inspiration. It is no surprise then that the origin story of Indian cinema should lie in Dadasaheb Phalke's 1913 silent film, Raja Harishchandra, based on the myth about the honesty and integrity of the Hindu king who gave away himself, his family and kingdom for the sake of a promise made to saint Vishwamitra, that too in a dream.

Many mythologicals followed in its wake—R Nataraja Mudaliar's Keechaka Vadham (1917) took off from the episode in the Mahabharat describing Bheem's slaying of Keechaka for having misbehaved with Draupadi, Franz Osten's The Throw of Dice (1929) was inspired from the gambling episode in the Mahabharat, V Shantaram's Ayodhyache Raja (1932) was yet another iteration of the legend of Harishchandra.

Homi Wadia's Wadia Movietone and Basant Pictures were at the forefront of making mythologicals in the North. In the South, N T Rama Rao acquired divine status by playing Krishna in several films in the 1950s and Venkateswara in Sri Venkateswara Mahatyam (1960). Yet, he was radical enough to take the risk of becoming Ravana in Bhookailas (1958), a role he reprised in his directorial debut, Seeta Rama Kalyanam (1961). The versatile Sivaji Ganesan worked in several genres, including the mythological, with his most popular outing being as Shiva in Thiruvilayadal (1965).

Early movies took to Hindu mythology because these stories, passed on down generations, were easy fodder in experiments with the new medium before filmmakers started embracing other original ideas—drawn from the real or imagined, socially and politically conscious or geared towards pure entertainment.

They were familiar fables that ensured mass patronage, dealt with universal human emotions, were replete in the navarasa and could also be lessons in morality. They were comforting assertions of the eventual victory of good over evil despite any trying interregnum. They also came with the wow factor—the grand scale, costumes, production design and special effects. They were perfect, colourful getaways from mundane reality than just celebrations of religiosity.

Since then, with technology getting more sophisticated, the grandeur has only increased manifold. But much more has changed, grown and evolved when it comes to the line of thought and arguments that the mythologicals are engaging with now. Like popular culture at large, mythologicals have also come to reflect the spirit of the times.

The most recent mythological memories go back to Ramanand Sagar's Hindi TV series Ramayan (1987-88). Watching it was a mandatory Sunday morning ritual across the country. B R Chopra and Ravi Chopra's Mahabharat (1988-1990) followed. As did Devon Ke Dev... Mahadev (2011-2014) much later.

Early movies took to Hindu mythology because these stories were easy fodder in experiments with the new medium. But is there any space left today for feminist or layered contemporary interpretations of mythology?

But a significant landmark in channeling devotional powers goes back to Vijay Sharma's low-budget Jai Santoshi Maa (1975), which didn't just become a money-churner but also started a new cult of the goddess who had been little known till then. But it was a faith that was quietly content, rather than engaging with or asserting itself over others.

The new aggressive turn in the march of the mythologicals came in 2015, with S S Rajamouli's larger-than-life spectacle Baahubali: The Beginning and its 2017 sequel Baahubali 2: The Conclusion. It didn't just scale up Eastern mythology to Hollywood levels, but also successfully marketed it like a Western franchisee. About a commoner with royal roots, it promised to be our own answer to The Lord of the Rings. It created a new pan-Indian film and the iconic image of Prabhas as Shivudu lifting a giant Shivling underscored the strength of the Hindu hero.

The first of Ayan Mukerji's Astraverse trilogy, Brahmastra Part I: Shiva (2022), about an orphan's realisation of his power to control fire, played on Hindu iconography. Chandoo Mondeti's Telugu film Karthikeya 2 (2022) focused on a doctor discovering the power of Krishna and ancient beliefs. Akshay Kumar in Abhishek Sharma's Ram Setu (2022) as the atheist archaeologist Aryan Kulshreshtha, the Indian Indiana Jones, moves away from science and recorded history to embrace faith and celebrate mythology.

Coming up next: a Ramayan trilogy by Nitesh Tiwari, Vicky Kaushal as Ashwatthama, Kangana Ranaut reinterpreting Sita and Nag Ashwin's "epic-mythological-science fiction" Kalki 2898 AD.

In this kerfuffle, will a feminist interpretation of the Ramayan like Sita Sings the Blues (2008) find any backers? It's a rhetorical question given that it too invited wrath back in 2009. What we're losing out on is a distinct genre of cinema that has been about layered, contemporary interpretations of mythology.

Warm greetings

It is height of flippancy on the part of Kerala's Congress-led UDF to jibe at Chief Minister Pinarayi's greeting of Prime Minister Modi with folded hands. Being loose-tongued betrays their disgruntlement. Tamil Nadu CM Stalin, who is politically on the same page as Pinarayi, is also seen these days greeting the PM with folded hands and warm holding of hands. What do these people have to say about that? Can't the PM and CMs belonging to opposing parties greet each other?

Check adherence

In a bid to curb the misuse of antibiotics and antimicrobial resistance or AMR, the Directorate General of Health Services has made it mandatory for doctors to mention in writing the need for prescribing them. This is a huge step in the right direction to clamp down on AMR, which significantly adds to galloping healthcare costs in the country. But which authority will be monitoring the doctors' declarations?

Coaching centres

It is sad that some coaching centres, caught in rat race, push students from eighth standard onwards into the cauldron of coaching. The focus shifts to coaching, and normal schooling becomes a subsidiary activity. The result is young people miss much-needed grooming for life. The new central stipulation that coaching centres should not enrol students below 16 years has come not a day too soon.

Federalism's future

According to the statement made by our former finance minister, the future of federalism in India is very weak. The power vested in the central government should be distributed to all states so that development can take place according to needs. This is not a good sign for the BJP government.

Regional tension

Amid the complex geopolitical tensions in West Asia, Pakistan's strikes within Iran and the subsequent exchange of hostilities show intricate dynamics. The regional context, including the Israel-Hamas war and US-led airstrikes in Yemen, adds layers to it. From India's strategic standpoint, this unfolding scenario carries significant implications. Pakistan's actions risk isolating the nation further, while India should advocate for restraint and diplomatic resolution.

Bloc blunders

The INDIA bloc is facing obstacles that are threatening to make it toothless even before campaigning starts. Mayawati's decision to not join the alliance undermines the objective of preventing the division of opposition votes, particularly in UP, which contributes the highest number of MPs. The West Bengal unit of the Congress advises against aligning with Trinamool Congress. The challenges were anticipated from the very beginning.

Creative freedom

Movies provide directors with a creative platform to express their views freely. However, the public has found new ways to hurt their sentiments. The curbing of freedom of speech in many areas is limiting and the constant need to tread carefully is hindering the creative process. What is the purpose of cinema if it cannot experiment and highlight the problems of society without fearing boycotts? 'Live and let live' should be the motto for everyone.

BJP aims rural connect, launches drive to cover 7 lakh villages in 9 days

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AS part of its outreach programmes ahead of the upcoming Lok Sabha elections, the BJP has introduced a Gaon Chalo campaign, under which the party leaders and workers will cover more than 7 lakh villages across the country in nine days.

They aim to take the notable performances during the last two terms of the Modi government to the people along the length and breadth of the country.

Earlier, the BJP, through the government-run Vikshit Bharat Sankalp Yatra, had covered more than 58,000 villages, highlighting BJP-led government's people-centric schemes.

According to party functionaries, under the Gaon Chalo campaign, the BJP leaders and workers will spend nights in the villages and hold dialogues with farmers, artisans and youths, and even groups of women, about the government's schemes. The office-beaters of party's seven fronts will also be engaged in this, from district to block level.

"As a multidimensional and comprehensive campaign, 'Gaon Chalo' will be held from February 4 to 11. The BJP workers will go to 7 lakh villages and all urban booths during this nine-day special outreach programme," said BJP national president JP Nadda on Saturday, inaugurating a workshop before the campaign at the party's central office.

> The BJP is for the nation and the people. We cannot leave any village bereft of development. With this mission, we will have to reach each and every village

Speaking on the occasion, Nadda said that party workers are invigorated under the visionary leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. "The BJP is for the nation and the people. We cannot leave any village bereft of development. With this mission, we will have to reach each and every village," he asserted.

A PowerPoint presentation was made, detailing the ways to reach out to people in villages.

NHAI introduces service bonds for new recruitees

Group A officers have to furnish ₹5 lakh, Group B &C officers ₹3 lakh

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) has introduced service bonds for the newly recruited employees under its direct recruitment scheme, in a bid to restrict their early departures. From now on, a candidate selected to the post under Group A will need to furnish a bond of ₹5 lakh. And for the posts under Group B and C, the employees will be required to submit a bond of ₹3 lakh.

According to officials, the service bonds have been brought in to protect the interest of the highways authority. Direct recruitment consumes substantial time and resources, but early resignations thereafter adversely impact the manpower planning, which ultimately affects the progress of works, they said.

According to a circular issued by the NHAI, the selected candidates will have to deposit the service bond amount if they resign from service before three or five years, or their service is terminated due to misconduct within the stipulated time period.

The NHAI is for the development, maintenance and management of national highways. The total length of national highways in the country, including expressways, is about 1.32 lakh kilometres at present. The NHAI is mandated to implement the National Highways Development Project, which is India's largest ever highways project, in a phased manner.

The authority will soon prepare a draft of the service bond, in consultation with its legal division. The draft will be circulated after taking approval from the member (administration), stated the note.

"All advertisements and offers of appointment issued for the posts to be filled on direct recruitment will contain the condition for furnishing service bonds by the selected candidates and they will have to submit the service bond on a non-judicial stamp paper (NJSP) of ₹100 (duly attested by the Notary Public or the Oath Commissioner) to the NHAI at the time of their joining," read the circular.

Resignations costly

According to officials, the service bonds have been brought in to protect the interest of the highways authority. Direct recruitment consumes substantial time and resources, but early resignations thereafter adversely impact the manpower planning, which ultimately affects the progress of works.

ARUN YOGIRAJ

MAN WHO CARVED RAM LALLA ON KRISHNA SHILA

KARTHIK KK

SOUMAV ROY

ON January 22, when Hindus from across the world will offer prayers for the consecration of Ram Lalla at the Ram Mandir in Ayodhya, a mortal's name will go down in the history of sculptors. Arun Yogiraj till now needed to introduce himself in his social media platforms as a sculptor. But ever since his Ram Lalla statue, carved out of black stone, was chosen by Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust on January 15 through voting, Yogiraj needs no introduction. The 51-inch long statue of Ram Lalla has been carved out of Krishna Shila from Bujjegoudanapura village in HD Kote in Mysuru district.

The pran prathishtha (consecration) of the idol inside the sanctum sanctorum will be done on January 22 in a ceremony presided over by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and watched from across the world. The event will mark a significant step towards fulfilment of an important part of the BJP's manifesto and will most likely be a major issue for the ruling saffron party in the forthcoming Lok Sabha elections.

For Yogiraj, a 38-year-old MBA graduate, the consecration of Ram Lalla would mark the culmination of a five generations old inheritance; of sculpting idols, political and regal icons from Mysuru, which has been the cultural nerve centre of Karnataka for generations, initially patronised by the King of Mysore. The 28-feet statue of Subhash Chandra Bose in monolithic black granite, which was installed by Modi under the canopy behind the India Gate in September 2022, was crafted by Yogiraj. Netaji's statue had given him the much-needed appreciation from Modi, which made the Ram Temple Trust to approach Yogiraj and entrust the work to carve Ram Lalla idol along with two others — Ganesh Bhatt from Bengaluru and Satya Narayan from Rajasthan — who were shortlisted for the purpose. The name Krishna Shila has been ascribed to Nellikaru rocks, out of which most idols in South India have been carved because their colour is identical to that of Lord Krishna. For Yogiraj, Krishna Shila would best bring out the expression of Ram Lalla — a smiling, benevolent, courageous five-year-old holding the golden bow and arrow.

Yogiraj's famed sculptures include a 12-feet tall statue of Adi Shankaracharya in Kedarnath, 21-feet Hanuman statue at Chunchanakatte in Mysuru district, 15-feet Dr BR Ambedkar, white amritashila statue of Swami Ramakrishna Paramahamsa in Mysuru, 14.5-feet white amritashila statue of the then king of Mysore Jayachamarajendra Wodeyar.

Yogiraj hails from a family with five generations of famous sculptors in Mysuru. His father Yogiraj is a skilled sculptor and his grandfather Basavanna Shilpi, was patronised by the King of Mysore. Though Yogiraj did his masters in business administration, his aptitude did not lie in boardroom decisions. With a strong penchant for carving and sculpting since early adolescence, he took to full time sculpting after quitting his brief corporate life. Since 2008, he has continued his carving career and there was no looking back.

NEWSMAKER

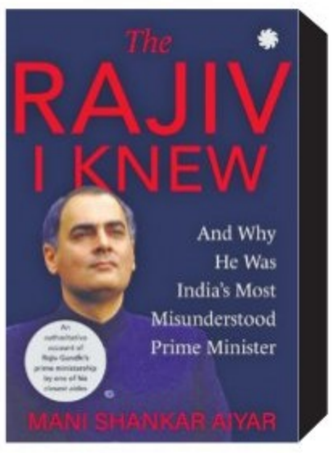
Sculpting Ram Lalla was not an easy task. According to his mother, her son went through a six-month-long vanavasa (exile), away from home, to carve the idol, which would now be venerated for time immemorial.

His wife Vijeta recalled the time when he suffered an eye injury during the process. A tiny piece of the stone had injured his cornea and he had to undergo an eye operation. "Today, all his efforts have been paid off, with the idol he carved being installed at the temple," she said.

The selection and consecration of Ram Lalla idol has catapulted the fame of the Mysurean, but he remains rooted on ground. "If people like the idol and are happy, it would be my biggest reward," said Yogiraj. In Ram Lalla, the legacy of Mysuru endures.

Arun Nehru, not Rajiv Gandhi, opened Babri gates, says Mani Shankar Aiyar

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi



THE unlocking of Babri Masjid gates in 1986 was orchestrated by "BJP mole" Arun Nehru, and former prime minister Rajiv Gandhi was not to be blamed for it, according to former Union minister and senior Congress leader Mani Shankar Aiyar.

Had Rajiv Gandhi been alive and been the prime minister instead of PV Narasimha Rao, he would never have allowed karsevaks into Ayodhya, Aiyar remarked during the launch of his book, 'The Rajiv I Knew And Why He Was India's Most Misunderstood Prime Minister', published by Juggernaut.

Speaking about the demolition of Babri Masjid by karsevaks in December 1992, Aiyar said that Gandhi would not have negotiated with the BJP the way Rao did, and allowed karsevaks in Ayodhya."Gandhi could have easily declared President's rule the minute these people climbed the dome and used the 125 companies... who were waiting outside Ayodhya to enter the premises and clear it of the people who destroyed the mosque. I don't think karsevaks would have been allowed into Ayodhya," he said.

The former diplomat asserted that it was the Congress to be blamed for the events that led to demolition of the mosque. "My sole point is that the only person not involved in all this, except for the 'shilaniyas' in the middle of the election, was Rajiv. He did not open the locks; he did not negotiate with the BJP, and did not go dumb when the domes were being knocked down. Rajiv is not to be blamed but the Congress is to be blamed," he said.

It was Arun Nehru, the cousin of Rajiv Gandhi, who was behind the opening of the locks, said Aiyar.

"Arun Nehru used his power within the party to get an unknown man, Veer Bahadur Singh, elected as the chief minister. As I described in the book, the first thing Singh did was to go to Ayodhya and meet Deoki Nandan Agarwal of the Vishwa Hindu Parishad and others. He obtained a petition from them, which said locks had not been put on the gates by judicial order but by executive order," said the Congress leader.

Thereafter, when the matter came up before the district sessions judge of Faizabad on February 1, 1986, the district magistrate and the senior superintendent of police affirmed that the locks were not necessary for preserving public peace, and law and order, he said.

"The locks were opened and a huge number of Hindu pilgrims, who had been gathered on purpose, surged in and Rajiv knew nothing about it. So yes, there was a Congress hand in the opening of the locks, but that Congress person knew that Rajiv Gandhi would never have allowed the opening of those locks, cancelling the executive order and that is why he kept it from Rajiv," claimed Aiyar.

The end of the story is that Arun Nehru joined the BJP, and hence, he was a "BJP plant", Aiyar said.

Sowing acreage of rabi wheat crop picks up

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

THE bone-chilling cold with dense fog may have thrown normal life out of gear in northern and eastern India, but has led to the revival of rabi wheat crop.

The sowing acreage has surpassed the previous year's record, and there is no report of the 'yellow rust' disease in the wheat growing region. Moreover, scientists are now expecting a spell of winter rain to boost the crops.

Early arrival of heat waves had marred wheat cultivation in last two years, leading to lesser production.

The total wheat sowing area reported on January 20 is 340.08 lakh hectares (Lh), which is 5.58 Lh more than the previous year. The acreage of wheat rose above the national average in Madhya Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh, while decreasing in Rajasthan and Maharashtra. The acreage is average in Punjab and Haryana.

"In the last three weeks, there has been continuous dip in temperatures in both minimum and maximum below normal, which has rejuvenated wheat crops marred by the onset of warmer winter," said Gyanendra Singh, director, Indian Institute of Wheat and Barley Research (IIWBR), Karnal.

Singh predicts a bumper wheat crop in the upcoming rabi season. Apart from current climatic conditions, he also underlined other favourable factors such as the absence of stripe rust (yellow rust) disease.

"Our latest survey shows that there is no presence of yellow rust disease in wheat in Punjab and Haryana," Singh told this newspaper, adding that IIWBR had surveyed this in late December.

The report also mentioned that Haryana and Punjab had completed 80% 'timely' sowing, which would prevent the loss of crops in the event of an early rise in temperatures like the last two years.

According to the report, in the Western UP, wheat sowing was very late due to the planting of potatoes and sugarcane.

Singh further said that there is a requirement for winter rainfall to further boost the wheat crops. "If a spell of winter rains happens, it will help in irrigation and help plants to get natural atmospheric nitrogen," he explained.

Break of a new dawn in Ayodhya as the protector of gods has arrived

YOGI ADITYANATH
Chief Minister, Uttar Pradesh

JAASU birahan sochahu deen raatee, rata hu nirantar gun gan paantee. Raghukul tilak sujan sukhadaata, aayu kusal dev muni traata. (In whose separation you keep thinking day and night, whose virtues you keep repeating continuously, that same Ram, the tilak of Raghukul, the giver of happiness and protector of gods and sages, has arrived safely.)

The long-awaited day has finally arrived, marking the end of centuries of anticipation, generations of struggle, and the fulfilment of the vow made by our ancestors. Today, the soul of Sanatan culture, Raghunandan Raghav Ram Lalla, is set to be enshrined in a grand and divine temple in his birthplace, Awadhpuri. This historic and sacred occasion, after a gap of 500 years, has overwhelmed not just India but the entire world, with all eyes fixed on the Mokshadayani Ayodhya. Today, every road leads to Shri Ram Janmbhoomi. Every eye is wet with tears of joy and satisfaction. And everyone is chanting "Ram-Ram".

Generations of believers and Ram devotees have left the world waiting for this day. The significance of today goes beyond the consecration of the 'Bal-Roop Vigraha' of Ram Lalla (idol of young Ram); it signifies the re-establishment of public faith and trust. Ayodhya is now being restored to its former glory. The joint victory of justice and truth is erasing bitter memories and creating new stories, fostering harmony in society.

The Ram Janmbhoomi Mukti Mahayagya was not merely a test of Sanatan belief; it successfully awakened the collective consciousness of the nation, uniting India in the thread of unity. The unique unity displayed in the fight for the construction of a temple at the birthplace of Lord Ram is unparalleled. Saints, ascetics, intellectuals, politicians and people from all walks of life rose above differences, uniting for a common cause. Socio-cultural organisations such as the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh and Vishwa Hindu Parishad set the roadmap and united the masses. The resolution was finally fulfilled, and a new dawn is breaking in India.

Ayodhya, once called the 'Amravati of Avani' and the 'Vaikuntha of the earth', remained cursed for centuries. In a land where Ram Rajya was an ideal concept, Ram had to prove his existence and evidence was sought for his birthplace. But Ram's life teaches us to behave decently and exercise self-restraint. The devotees of Ram demonstrated patience and perseverance, with their resolve growing stronger with each passing day. Today, as Ayodhya regains its lost glory, the entire nation rejoices. Heartfelt congratulations to Prime Minister Narendra Modi for guiding us to fulfil our resolve.

January 22, 2024, is an occasion of greatest joy for me, personally. As I reflect on the journey, memories flood my mind — moments of unwavering determination to liberate Ram Janmabhoomi. It was this resolve that led me into the virtuous company of revered Gurudev Mahant Avaidyanath Maharaj. Today, as we mark the auspicious occasion of consecrating the idol of Shri Ram Lalla, I am acutely aware that my grandfather, the late Mahant Digvijaynath Maharaj, and respected Gurudev, the late Mahant Avaidyanath Maharaj, along with other revered saints, may not be physically present, but their souls must surely be experiencing immense satisfaction. It is my good fortune to stand witness to the fulfilment of the resolution to which my respected gurus remained devoted throughout their lives.

Since the announcement of Shri Ram Lalla's consecration in the Shri Ram Janmabhoomi temple, the anticipation among every Sanatan believer has been palpable, building towards the eagerly awaited date of January 22. The sheer magnitude of collective joy and the celebratory atmosphere that now permeates the entire nation is unparalleled in recent centuries.

The convergence of diverse spiritual traditions — Shaiva, Vaishnav, Shakta, Ganapatya, Patya, Sikh, Buddhist, Jain, Dashnam Shankar, Ramananda, Ramanuj, Nimbarka, Madhava, Vishnu Nami, Ramsanehi, Ghisapanth, Garibdasi, Akali, Nirankari, Gaudiya, Kabirpanthi — representing myriad schools, sects, worship methods and traditions, alongside saints from over 150 traditions, as well as prominent figures from more than 50 communities, including forest-hill dwellers, tribal groups and luminaries from various fields such as politics, science, industry, sports, arts, culture and literature, all converging under one umbrella is truly unprecedented.

Today, the prime minister will eloquently convey the sentiments of 140 crore Indians in front of Shri Ram Lalla, transforming Ayodhyadham into a symbolic 'Mini India'. This momentous occasion is a source of immense pride, and on behalf of the 25 crore people of Uttar Pradesh, I extend heartfelt greetings to everyone in sacred Ayodhyadham.

Following the pran pratistha ceremony, Ayodhyadham stands poised to extend a warm welcome to devotees, tourists, researchers and inquisitive minds from across the globe. With a dedicated focus on this objective, Ayodhyapuri is undergoing meticulous preparations in alignment with the visionary plans of the prime minister. The city now boasts an international airport, an expanded railway station, and a well-connected network of four-to-six lane roads converging from all directions. Additionally, heliport service and a range of convenient hotels and guest houses have been established to cater to the diverse needs of visitors.

In New Ayodhya, the preservation of ancient culture and civilisation is coupled with the integration of cutting-edge urban facilities, meticulously designed to meet the demands of the future. As part of this initiative, there is a rapid rejuvenation of religious, mythological and historical sites within the radius of Panchkosi, 14 Kosi, and 84 Kosi parikrama of Ayodhya. These concerted efforts are not only contributing to the preservation of cultural heritage but also poised to boost tourism, foster cultural promotion and generate new employment opportunities in the region.

The establishment of the Shri Ram Janmabhoomi temple stands as a profound spiritual ceremony, marking a cultural renaissance in India — it is not merely a temple but the national temple. Through the benevolence of Ram, the sanctity of the traditional parikrama of Ayodhya is now secure; no disruptions shall mar its sacred path. In the lanes of Ayodhya, bullets will not echo, the Saryu will not bear the stain of blood, and curfew will not unleash havoc. Instead, a jubilant celebration will reverberate, echoing the resonance of Ramnam Sankirtan.

The consecration of Ram Lalla in Awadhpuri heralds the establishment of Ram Rajya in India — an embodiment of the ideal where Sab nar karahee paraspar preeti, chalahee svadharm nirat shruti neeti (All human beings loving each other and following their respective religions according to their scriptures) becomes a living reality. The Bal-Roop Vigraha of Shri Ram enshrined in the temple serves as a guiding light, paving the way for every Sanatan believer to follow their religious principles. Congratulations to 140 crore fellow citizens on this auspicious occasion. We take immense satisfaction in witnessing the fulfilment of our commitment to build the temple where our ancestors had solemnly sworn. May the blessings of Lord Ram envelop everyone in warmth and grace.

Shri Ramah sharanam mama, Jai-jai Shri Sitaram (Shri Ram, my refuge; Hail Shri Sitaram).

Ayodhya covered with thick security blanket

Run-up to Jan 22: New idol of Ram Lalla in sanctum sanctorum, a lock weighing 400kg reaches the temple town from Aligarh

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Ayodhya

WITH the rituals of the pran-pratishthha of Ram Lalla as a five-year-old boy in sanctum sanctorum of Ram temple entered fifith day with Vastu Puja on Saturday and final ritual being just a day away, the city of Ayodhya is all decked up to welcome the distinguished 7,000 guests who have started coming in for the final ceremony.

With the final ritual inching closer and the guests have started coming, the boundaries of the temple town were sealed with a thick security blanket on Saturday. The security personnel deployed in every nook and corner of Ayodhya.

As one proceeds to Ayodhya from Lucknow, the roads along give an idea of the mood. There are fluttering saffron flags marking the roads all through with the buildings on both sides replete with banners and posters depicting of Lord Ram in different forms from being a suave king of Ayodhya to serving in exile and even an angry warrior ready to absorb the ocean with one arrow. However, majority of the posters have one feature in common, the photographs of PM Narendra Modi and UP CM Yogi Adityanath.

The vehicles whizz pass with Lord Ram on flags fluttering boastfully through the green corridor created from Lucknow and adjoining districts to Ayodhya.

As one reaches Ayodhya, the flyovers decorated with artworks of Lord Ram, donning his bow and arrow, and ornamental lampposts carrying designs themed on the traditional 'Ramanandi tilak' start emerging setting the tone and tenor of the temple town. Huge LED screens have been put up at various places across Ayodhya. If an incessant Ram Dhun is adding to spiritual vibes of the town, the bhajans with dhol and manjira are reverberating the temples, big and small, all across.

The week-long consecration rituals leading to final pran-pratishthha on January 22, entered day five on Saturday. The day took off at 9 in the morning with 'Adhivas' of the new idol followed by Vastu Puja, which dominated the day-long rituals. The Vastu Puja was performed by Yajman Dr Anil Mishra and his wife Usha Mishra along with Alok Kumar, international officiating president of VHP.

Holy dip in Saryu

The PM is expected to take a holy dip in Saryu, the arrangements for which are underway at Tulsighat. The PM had taken a dip in Ganga in Varanasi when he inaugurated the Kashi Vishwanath Corridor in December, 2021.

Narottam Mishra to manage 4 LS seats

A month-and-a-half after facing defeat in the Madhya Pradesh assembly elections from his Datia seat, former home minister and powerful Brahmin leader Narottam Mishra has reportedly been tasked by the national BJP with managing four Lok Sabha seats of Gwalior-Chambal region in the coming general elections. Mishra is among the seven Lok Sabha cluster in-charges appointed in the state. He'll take care of the Gwalior, Bhind-SC, Morena and Guna LS seats of his home region. According to informed sources, he's also in the race for next state BJP chief, if the party decides to change state chief VD Sharma.

Ex-PM's movie out, niece asks for tax-free watch

Pankaj Tripathi-starrer biopic Main Atal Hoon based on former PM Atal Bihari Vajpayee was released across the country on January 19. Joining the cast and crew of the movie at the premiere show in Mumbai were the ex-PM's Indore-based niece Mala Vajpayee Tiwari, her son Abhishek Tiwari and son-in-law Kapil Mishra. Not only did the movie leave Mala tear-eyed, it also prompted her to write to PM Narendra Modi to declare the movie tax free across the country, for infusing the spirit of nationalism among the youths. Her son Abhishek hoped that the appeal is accepted.

Cong issues show cause notices to 150 workers

State Congress' disciplinary committee has issued show cause notices to 150 leaders and workers who either contested against the party's official candidates or supported the rival candidates in the November 17, 2023 Vidhan Sabha polls. The 150 leaders have been asked to reply to the notices in ten days, failing which action would be initiated against them. In case the replies of the concerned leaders/ workers aren't found satisfactory, the party will act appropriately against them. The development happened when former Congress MLA from Morena seat of Gwalior-Chambal region Rakesh Mavai joined the BJP.

BJP govt cancels ₹218 cr contracts to former Cong minister's brother

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

CHHATTISGARH housing and environment minister OP Choudhary has issued a directive to cancel ten major construction works of ₹218 crore allotted to 'Raipur Construction Limited' owned by a brother of former Congress cabinet minister Mohammed Akbar.

The grounds of revoking the contract of major tasks as cited by the BJP minister was poor quality performance and delay in completing the allotted construction project works, which are mostly to be accomplished under the smart city project in the new capital 'Nava Raipur-Atal Nagar' in Chhattisgarh.

"The agreements of ₹218 crore for 10 major works have been cancelled. The contracts were awarded to an executing agency Raipur Construction Ltd, which is managed by a relative of a former senior Congress minister. The Congress government had been giving extension after extension to the firm that was also served with notices to conclude the given projects in the given target time. But it didn't comply, so we took stringent action against the agency revoking the contract work orders," said Choudhary who further added that his government will not tolerate poor quality work of any company or contractors.

To a query that the firm was related to a family member of Akbar, who was earlier the state housing and environment minister in Bhupesh Baghel government, the BJP minister said that it's a big issue that came to his knowledge and he got the entire thing examined by an internal team before taking a firm decision to cancel the works of ₹218 crore.

This newspaper learnt that the firm belonged to Mohammed Asghar, brother of the former Congress minister.

Despite repeated calls neither Asghar nor his brother Mohammed Akbar picked the calls nor responded to the messages texted to them for their reactions to the government's decision. Questions were also raised on how these many works had been allotted to the then minister's brother. The new BJP government seems to be in an action mode to swiftly develop the new capital smart city Nava Raipur and issued instructions to complete all projects within deadline.

The Centre has extended the deadline to complete the pending works under the Smart City Mission in different cities till June 2024.

CBI issues notice to Lalu aide in sand mining case

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

A day after the ED issued fresh summons to RJD chief Lalu Prasad and his son and deputy chief minister Tejashwi Prasad Yadav in connection with the alleged land-for-jobs scam, CBI on Saturday issued summons to Lalu's close associate and former MLA Arun Yadav in connection with illegal sand mining.

Sources said that a CBI team reached the ancestral house of Yadav at Agiaon village in Bhojpur district and handed over the notice to his wife and RJD MLA Kiran Devi as he was not present in the house. In the last assembly election, RJD had denied ticket to Arun Yadav after his name figured in a rape case.

Yadav faces charges of being involved in the illegal mining business, spread over from Ara to Patna districts in the state. Yadav's name had earlier surfaced when CBI took action against MLC Radha Charan Seth in the illegal sand mining case. CBI had found evidence against Yadav.

Nitish forms new list of party office-bearers, keeps Lalan out of it

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

BIHAR chief minister and JD(U) president Nitish Kumar on Saturday announced the formation of a new pary committee and came out with a new list of national office-bearers, relieving many MPs of their organisational position and elevating position of senior leader K C Tyagi.

Former president and Munger MP Rajiv Ranjan Singh alias Lalan Singh has been shunted from the new team. His close associates, including Harshvardhan Singh, have also been sidelined and not given any responsibility in the organisation allegedly for his proximity with RJD chief Lalu Prasad.

A JD(U) leader, on condition of anonymity, said that Lalan had not been given any role in the organisation on his plea that he would have to focus on his Lok Sabha constituency in the upcoming election. "These are mere allegations and have no basis to prove it that Lalan Singh was closely associated with RJD supremo," he added.

Lalan is known for his sharp diatribe against BJP and had played an important role in the break-up of JD(U)'s alliance with BJP in August 2022.

His close aide Harshvardhan also lost his post in JD(U)'s new team.

Apart from being designated as JD(U) spokesperson and special advisor, Tyagi has been made party's political advisor. Former president Bashistha Narain Singh has been vice president, replacing Mangani Lal Mandal who will be now one of the 11 general secretaries in the organisation. Veteran socialist and former party president Bashistha Narain Singh has been made vice president.

Border areas not buffer zones: Rajnath in U'khand

NARNERDA SETHI @ Dehradun

DEFENCE Minister Rajnath Singh has asserted that the Centre considers the border areas part of the mainstream and not a buffer zone.

"There was a time when border infrastructure development was unimportant. The then governments used to work with the mindset that those living in the plains are the mainstream," he said.

The Defence Minister was addressing a local gathering virtually while inaugurating developmental projects from Uttarakhand's Joshimath on Friday. On the occasion, he inaugurated 35 projects. He highlighted the significance of the recently completed Dhak and Bhapkund bridges on the Joshimath-Malari road -- which connects to the China border road in Dhak -- located in the Chamoli district of Uttarakhand.

He also underscored the importance of the Rikhim Gaad bridge on the Sumana-Rikhim motor road in his address. The projects comprise six roads and 29 bridges from seven states built for 670 crore. Minister Singh inaugurated projects in seven states, including three bridges in Uttarakhand, one road and ten bridges in Jammu and Kashmir, three roads and six bridges in Ladakh, one bridge in Himachal Pradesh, two roads in Sikkim, eight bridges in Arunachal Pradesh, and one bridge in Mizoram.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh at Joshimath in Uttarakhand on Friday. | EXPRESS

Slamming the previous governments, he said, "Due to the narrow-mindedness and limited vision of the previous governments, development did not reach the border areas. However, the situation has now changed. Under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, our government is committed to the development of border areas while keeping the security needs of the country in mind."

On the occasion, the minister commended the Border Roads Organization (BRO) for strengthening the basic infrastructure in border areas. He also called for the organisation to work closely with the Ministry of Environment for maximum national security and welfare. "BRO is connecting remote areas with the rest of the country by constructing roads, bridges, and the like", he said.

He hailed the BRO for strengthening vital infrastructure in border regions. The minister also highlighted the significance of close collaboration between BRO and the Ministry of Environment to enhance national security and well-being.

"BRO plays a crucial role in linking isolated areas with the broader populace by constructing roads, bridges, and other essential infrastructure, thereby connecting the hearts of people living in remote villages with those of the rest of the country's citizens", Singh remarked.

"Climate change is not just a weather-related phenomenon, but a severe issue connected to national security," he said, adding that the Ministry of Defence is taking this very seriously and will seek cooperation from friendly countries in this regard." Minister Singh also made special mention of the contribution of the BRO in the recently initiated Silkyara Tunnel operation to rescue stranded labourers in Uttarakhand.

MP shocker: 'Debt-ridden' govt doctor couple die by suicide in MP

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

RESIDENTS of Nandan Vatika Colony in Bina town of Sagar district, Madhya Pradesh woke up to an early morning shocker on Saturday, as a state government employed doctor couple Dr Balvir Kathoriya and Dr Manju Kathoriya were found dead inside their house.

The incident came to light, when the couple's lone son Pratik (who is pursuing MBBS in Patna) arrived in Bina from Patna early in the morning and found the main gate of the house open.

Upon climbing up to the first floor where his parents lived, he was shocked to see father hanging to death from the ceiling fan, while mother was lying dead on the bed.

According to the Bina police station in-charge Bharat Singh Thakur, a two-page suicide note purportedly written by the couple was recovered from the same bed room.

The note mentioned about the couple's inability to take the pressures of private banks and finance companies to repay loans worth crores of rupees, the police officer added.

Importantly, the couple's son Pratik had talked to parents over phone on Friday night and informed them about coming home for a few days in the morning, but they didn't seem worried or panic stricken during that phone call.

While Dr Balvir was posted at a community health centre (CHC) in Kurwai in adjoining Vidisha district, his gynecologist wife Dr Manju was posted at the government hospital in Bina town.

"While Dr Balvir was found hanging to death, Dr Manju was found dead on the bed in the same bedroom on the house's first floor.

An empty syringe and cotton on the same bed suggested that she had injected poison to end her life," the Bina police station in-charge added.

Three years back, the doctor couple's only daughter Purva too had reportedly died by suicide, possibly under acute depression. She was also a promising student, who was preparing for medical entrance exams.

The local police are probing information about the doctor couple's plans to buy a house in Bhopal and striking a deal with some party to sell their Bina town's house to purchase the house in Bhopal. The police said the preliminary investigation found it as suicide case, however, it did not rule out the possible foul play. The exact reason would be known after the post-mortem is done, the police said.

Israeli airstrike in Syria kills five Iranian advisers

Israeli air force fired the missiles in Damascus neighbourhood of Mazzeh while flying over Syria's Israeli-occupied Golan Heights, says Syria

DAMASCUS

AN Israeli strike on the Syrian capital on Saturday destroyed a building used by the Iranian paramilitary Revolutionary Guard, killing at least five Iranians, Syrian and Iranian state media reported.

The Syrian army said the building in the tightly guarded western Damascus neighbourhood of Mazzeh was entirely destroyed, adding that the Israeli air force fired the missiles while flying over Syria's Israeli-occupied Golan Heights. The Israeli military did not comment.

A few hours later, an Israeli drone strike on a car near the southern Lebanese port city of Tyre killed two Hezbollah members who were in the vehicle and two persons who were in a nearby orchard, an official with the group and Lebanon's state news agency said. One of those killed was Ali Hudruj, a local Hezbollah commander, said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Nour News, which is believed to be close to Iran's intelligence apparatus, identified two of the dead in Damascus as Gen. Sadegh Omidzadeh, the intelligence deputy of the guard's expeditionary Quds Force in Syria, and his deputy, who goes by the nom de guerre Hajj Gholam. The guard later issued statements identifying the five dead as Hojjatollah Omidvar, Ali Aghazadeh, Hossein Mohammadi, Saeed Karimi and Mohammad Amin Samadi. It gave no ranks for them.

An opposition war monitor, the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights, said at least six persons—five Iranians and a Syrian — were killed in the missile attack that struck while officials from Iran-backed groups were holding a meeting.

The Observatory's chief, Rami Abdurrahman, said three of the Iranians were commanders, adding that four other persons are still missing under the rubble.

The Telegram channel for Iranian state TV reported that Iran's President Ebrahim Raisi condemned the Israeli attack on Damascus, adding that "the Islamic Republic will not leave the crimes of the Zionist regime unanswered."

Iranian Foreign Ministry spokesman Nasser Kanaani condemned the Israeli strike in a statement saying that "without any doubt, the blood of these high-ranking martyrs will not be wasted." AP

Women, kids main victims of war: un

Women and children are the main victims in the Israel-Hamas war, with some 16,000 killed and an estimated two mothers losing their lives every hour since Hamas' surprise attack on Israel, the United Nations agency promoting gender equality said on Friday

GENDER INEQUALITY

UN Women added, at least 3,000 women may have become widows and heads of households and 10,000 kids have lost their fathers

In a report released on Friday, the agency pointed to gender inequality and the burden on women fleeing the fighting with children and being displaced again and again

Of the territory's 2.3 million population, it said, 1.9 million are displaced and "close to one million are women and girls" seeking shelter

CRUEL INVERSION

UN Women's executive director, Sima Bahous, said this is "a cruel inversion" of fighting during the 15 years

Previously, she said, 67% of all civilians killed in Gaza and the West Bank were men and less then 14% were women

"However much we mourn the situation of the women and girls of Gaza today, we will mourn further tomorrow without unrestricted humanitarian assistance and an end to the destruction and killing," Bahous said

Netanyahu under pressure from families of hostages to push for Hamas truce

JERUSALEM

RELATIVES of hostages held by Hamas in Gaza protested on Saturday outside the home of Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu, expressing frustration over his government's seeming lack of progress in getting the more than 100 captives released as the war in Gaza drags on.

A group representing families of the hostages said they had "begged for 105 days" and now demanded the government show leadership and take bold steps to free the hostages. A member of Israel's War Cabinet has called a ceasefire the only way to secure their release, a comment that implied criticism of Israel's strategy.

On Friday, the father of a 28-year-old man held by Hamas began what he called a hunger strike outside Netanyahu's home in Caesarea.

Eli Shtivi, whose son Idan was among those kidnapped from a music festival in southern Israel, pledged to eat only a quarter of a pita a day—the amount of food some hostages reportedly receive some days —until the prime minister agreed to meet with him.

Dozens of people who joined Shtivi were still there on Saturday.

Meanwhile, as part of its search for the hostages, Israel's military dropped leaflets in Rafah appealing for information. The leaflets, with photos of dozens of hostages, carried a message suggesting benefits for anyone who spoke up.

"You want to return home? Please report if you identified one of them," read the message, which also listed a phone number and a link to a website with images and names of hostages in Arabic.

Al-Majd al-Amni, a media outlet linked to the Hamas internal security force, warned Palestinians against supplying any information about Israeli soldiers held hostage in Gaza. The warning came hours after the leaflets were dropped.

The protest outside the PM's home and the remark by former Israeli army chief Gadi Eisenkot were among several signs of growing strife in Israel over the direction of the war.

Under heat to appease members of his right-wing governing coalition by intensifying the war against Hamas, Netanyahu also must contend with calls for restraint from ally the United States and from the families of hostages. AP

Iran says it launched satellite in new aerospace milestone

Iran said on Saturday it had conducted a successful satellite launch into its highest orbit yet, the latest for a programme the West fears improves Tehran's ballistic missiles

SORAYA SATELLITE

The Soraya satellite was placed in an orbit at some 750 kilometres above the Earth's surface with its three-stage Qaem 100 rocket, IRNA news agency said

It did not immediately acknowledge what the satellite did, though telecommunications minister Isa Zarepour described the launch as having a 50-kilogramme payload

The launch was part of Iran's Revolutionary Guards' space programme alongside Iran's civilian space programme, the report said

Footage released by Iranian media showed the rocket blast off from a mobile launcher, a religious verse referring to Shiite Islam's 12th hidden imam written on its side

LAUNCH FROM SHAHROUD

An Associated Press analysis of the footage suggested the launch happened at the Guard's launch pad on the outskirts of the city of Shahroud, some 350 kilometres east of the capital, Tehran. Iran's three latest successful satellite launches have all happened at the site

There was no immediate independent confirmation Iran had successfully put the satellite in orbit. The US military and the State Department did not immediately respond to request for comment

Dormitory with charred windows after a fire at the Yingcai School in Dushu Town, Fangcheng County, Nanyang city in central China's Henan province on Friday | AP

13 students killed in an elementary school dorm fire in China's Henan

BANGKOK

A fire broke out in dorms at a boarding school for elementary students in central Henan province, and 13 students died in the blaze, Chinese state media reported on Saturday. All of the dead were third grade students, a teacher told Zonglan news. One person rescued from the scene was being treated in the hospital, CCTV, China's state broadcaster said.

Police set up a cordon around the school, a Xinhua news report showed, and the dorm where the fire had happened was charred black even on the outside of the building. The school had metal grilles covering the windows, as is common in buildings in China. The dormitory room housed approximately 30 students. The remaining 16 students were safely evacuated.

The fire started on Friday night and was put out just before midnight at Yingcai School in rural Fangcheng district in central Henan. The school's owner was detained, CCTV reported. State media reported that public records showed the owner of the school is a man called Li Jizhong. The Associated Press could not reach Li.

Local authorities said they were investigating the cause of the fire. China's central Emergency Management Ministry dispatched a team to the scene to do an investigation as well. Fire safety remains a concern across the country. AP

Trump rules out picking Nikki Haley as his running mate

WASHINGTON

FORMER US president Donald Trump has thrown cold water on the idea of picking Indian-American presidential candidate Nikki Haley as a running mate, saying that she was not of that calibre, hours after she herself nixed the possibility.

"She is OK, but she is not presidential timber. And when I say that, that probably means she is not going to be chosen as the vice president," Trump, who is the dominant front-runner for the Republican nomination, said at a rally in Concord on Friday.

"When you say certain things, it sort of takes them out of play, right? I can't say, 'She's not of the timber to be the vice president' and then say, 'Ladies and gentleman, I'm proud to announce that I've picked'," The Hill quoted Trump as saying about the former United Nations ambassador.

Haley, who is Trump's closest rival in the polls in New Hampshire, has repeatedly said she is not running for second place in the Republican primary but had previously declined to specifically comment on whether she would be the former president's running mate.

Earlier on Friday, Haley, 51, appeared to more definitively nix the idea, telling a group of voters that being vice president was "off the table".

Nikki Haley | AP

Haley's momentum in the Republican race, where her poll numbers steadily climbed in recent months, has fuelled speculation that she could be a contender as Trump's No. 2.

Some Republicans like former Speaker Kevin McCarthy had suggested Haley would be a good pick to balance out the former president's weaknesses as a candidate.

Some in Trump's orbit, including Representative Marjorie Taylor Greene (R-Ga.), his son Donald Trump Jr. and former adviser Steve Bannon said choosing Haley as a running mate would lead to a revolt among his most ardent supporters. However, sources close to Trump downplayed the idea that he was ever seriously considering the Indian-American candidate. Trump, 77, has in recent weeks levied personal attacks against his former cabinet member, including sharing a false "birther" conspiracy. PTI

Czech court rules Nikhil Gupta can be extradited to US

PRAGUE

A Czech high court has ruled that Indian national Nikhil Gupta, detained in a prison here on murder-for-hire charges in an alleged assassination attempt on a Khalistani extremist on American soil, can be extradited to the US, according to local media reports. Gupta, 52, was charged by US federal prosecutors in an indictment unsealed in November last year with working with an Indian government employee in an alleged plot to kill Khalistani separatist Gurpatwant Singh Pannun, who holds dual US and Canadian citizenships, on American soil.

Gupta, arrested in the Czech Republic on June 30 last year, is currently held in Prague's Pankrak prison.

The Prague High Court confirmed in a closed session that Gupta can be extradited to the US, the Seznam.cz web portal reported on Friday. The Prague High Court's order came as it rejected Gupta's appeal against a December decision by a lower court that ruled that extradition was allowed. A spokesman for the Prague High Court declined to immediately comment.

"We have not yet confirmed that the resolution has been delivered to all procedural parties, for that reason we cannot comment on the decision in more detail," Katerina Kolarova, the spokeswoman of the Prague High Court, said. PTI

India Inc cash in on Ayodhya frenzy

Free bus tickets to complementary popcorn at multiplexes, India Inc in full festive mode

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN what Indian Inc has gone into a marketing overdrive ahead of the Ram Temple consecration in Ayodhya on January 22.

From free bus tickets to complementary popcorn at multiplexes, corporate India has gone into full festive mode to commemorate the ceremony. The euphoria around the consecration is such that India's largest company, Reliance Industries, announced a holiday for their offices across the country on January 22 and the capital market will remain shut following the Maharashtra government's decision to declare Monday as a public holiday.

"The hype around the event is unprecedented. It has taken centre stage across media platforms and will be watched by hundreds of millions in India and abroad. This gives a perfect opportunity for corporates to connect with people who have an emotional connection with the Ayodhya temple," said a senior marketing analyst at a consultancy firm while requesting anonymity. He added that while some firms have been creative in their marketing approach and want to contribute in (and after) the mega event, a large number of companies have gone overboard to catch on euphoria.

In the last one month or so, a large number of private players announced their participation in the event. The hospitality industry announced setting up new hotels in Ayodhya as they perceive a huge opportunity arising from tourism. Industry representatives estimate the town will see a footfall of 1 lakh tourists every day after January 22 and the current infrastructure is inadequate to support such a large influx. As per official sources, over 50 major hotel construction projects are underway in the city with Taj Hotels, Marriott International, Sarovar Hotels and the Park Inn opening their properties here.

Following the inauguration of Maharishi Valmiki International Airport in Ayodhya on December 30, Indian carriers wasted no time in adding the town as their new destination. IndiGo, Air India, Akasa and SpiceJet have connected Ayodhya with all the major cities.

INDIA INC SEES HUGE PROSPECT

- Reliance announces holiday for their offices on Jan 22
- India's capital market to remain shut on Monday
- Consecration ceremony has taken centre stage across media platforms
- A large number of private players announced their participation in the event
- Hospitality industry setting up hotels in Ayodhya as they see huge opportunity

FMCG and retail firms joined the bandwagon. A couple of days ago, Dabur India said it will donate a portion of its profits from Dabur products sold until January 31 to Shree Janmabhumi Teertha Kshetra. Dabur has said it has tied up with dhabas and eateries on Lucknow, Gorakhpur and Varanasi highways leading to Ayodhya. "Ram Mandir consecration is a momentous occasion in our history and Dabur, as a home-grown Indian brand, is being a part of this occasion...Besides ramping up distribution of our products in the city anticipating demand surge for daily essentials, we are creating experience zones where visitors and pilgrims arriving in Ayodhya can touch, feel and experience our range of products like Real juices, Dabur Amla hair oil and Dabur Vedic Tea," said its CEO Mohit Malhotra. Adani Group's Fortune Brand recently said in seven days they plan to distribute over 25,000 jalebis shaped in the form of the 'Bloom', which is the 'Fortune logo'. They will have Fortune Special Pakoda Platte and Fortune Mega-Bhog for devotees who will gather in Ayodhya.

ITC's Agarbatti brand Mangaldeep said they donated their flagship dhoop, "Mangaldeep 3 in 1 Dhoop," for duration of six months from the Temple's opening date. This gesture aims to facilitate daily puja rituals for pandits, ensuring a seamless and aromatic devotional experience, it said. RIL has set up a water distribution stall and will hand out free packaged water to devotees. Its telecom arm Jio has upgraded its network in Ayodhya.

Coca-Cola is placing vending machines, and supporting local shopkeepers to deck up their stores by placement of coolers to garner more business. Ride-hailing firm Uber has started its electric auto-rickshaw service in the town. The firm will start operating UberGo and Uber Intercity inter-city to meet growing travel demand. "We are not only providing enhanced mobility options for tourists and pilgrims, but also unlocking earning opportunities for many more in the region. We are committed to contributing to the city's tourism, promoting a seamless travel experience and fostering sustainable economic growth," said Prabhjeet Singh, president, Uber India and South Asia.

GAZA SPILLOVER NOW THREATENS TO FREEZE UP WORLD ECONOMY

GURBIR SINGH

THE worst fears of Israel's Gaza war spilling over to the Middle-East region – voiced in this column too – are unfortunately coming true. Israel's continued decimation of Gaza and its Palestinian residents, has been sending shock waves through the Muslim and Arab world; and it now seems just a step before a full-blown regional conflict breaks out.

Despite US warnings to the Iran-backed Houthi regime in Yemen, the rebel forces have been pummelling western shipping passing through the Red Sea. Videos of the Houthis boarding ships and even dancing on the deck have helped freeze the waterways, driving up freight costs, as shipping lines re-route their vessels.

Over the last week, the US' Biden administration has made good their threat to retaliate and have let loose four waves of bombings of Houthi targets. On their part, the battle-hardened Houthis have made it clear the US attacks will not deter them from continuing their blockade of Israel-linked shipping.

"We will continue targeting ships linked to Israel and the bombing of occupied Palestine until the aggression and blockade on Gaza ends," leader of the Yemen's Houthi militia, Abdul Malik Al-Houthi, said on Thursday. Despite persistent US bombardment, the Houthis struck a U.S.-owned ship in the Gulf of Aden on Monday and a Malta-flagged bulk carrier in the Red Sea on Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Iran too seems to have been drawn into the regional skirmish carrying out multiple missile launches against targets in Syria, Iraq and Pakistan. Some of these targets – like Irbil in Kurdish region of Iraq - it claims are Israeli Mossad command headquarters.

US boots on the ground may not be too far off, either. US Navy Seals boarding a vessel bound for a Yemen port carrying weapons for the Houthis, suffered their first casualties as 2 of them went missing in the choppy seas.

US falls for Houthi bait?

What has amazed war analysts is Iran's attack on Pakistan's Baluchistan province. Iran says it was targeting the militant group Jaish al-Adl; but Pakistani government spokesmen said the missiles only managed to kill a few innocent village children. Pakistan has predictably retaliated with airstrikes inside Iran on 'militant hideouts'.

While the official version from Teheran says it is retaliating against attacks by Israeli and US forces on its soil, the long-term goal of an aggressive Iran seems to be to strengthen Iran-backed militias – Hamas in Gaza, the Hezbollah in Lebanon and the heavily armed Shiite militias in Iraq called the Popular Mobilization Forces (PMF).

One can see India too being sucked into the conflict as it announced support for the Iranian version of events in Baluchistan. This has run parallel to an Indian warship INS Visakhapatnam answering a distress call of a Marshall Islands-flagged cargo ship being attacked by a drone off the Gulf of Aden.

As the US increases its military presence in the Red Sea area, it appears the superpower has fallen for the Houthi bait. The Iranian axis wants the US sucked into multiple local conflicts. This, it hopes, would cement a stronger pan-Arab alliance, and help the Houthis and other Iranian allies like Hezbollah to consolidate their local power.

On the other side, Israel's far-right government has ignored US calls to wind up the fighting, and have girded their loins for a long war. In this case too, local politics has prevailed. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and his friends, certain that a ceasefire and elections would see them voted out of office, want to continue the Gaza war for as long as possible.

World Bank warning

Alarm bells on the impact of two continuing wars in Ukraine and Gaza, the danger of further conflagration in the Middle-East and a slowing Chinese economy on the world economy are sounding louder. The growth in world output will slow further in 2024, declining to 2.4% from 2.6%, the World Bank's biannual Global Economic Prospects report has warned.

This has put the world economy on track for the weakest half-decade in 30 years. "Without a major course correction, the 2020s will go down as a decade of wasted opportunity," said Indermit Gill, the World Bank Group's chief economist. China's growth is expected to slow to 4.5% this year from 5.2% in 2023, China's slowest expansion in 30 years outside the pandemic-induced downturn. Growth in the United States too is expected to slow to 1.6% this year, down from 2.5% in 2023 because of high interest rates and cutbacks in government spending.

The fallout of the widening fighting could see a spike in the cost of both oil and food, and reignite inflation. The Houthi standoff in the Red Sea, because of the rerouting of shipping via the much longer Cape of Good Hope, will push up oil prices, and freight and insurance rates.

For India, the scenario is not rosy as investments in a slowing world economy will take a hit, and oil – a huge import factor for India – is likely to climb, even as discounted Russian oil disappears.

In a word, it is in everybody's interest to diffuse this man-made crisis. And the starting point will have to be getting the US to withdraw support for Israel's unjust war and force a ceasefire on the Gaza strip.

Since the beginning of the 21st century, India have lost only two Test series at home. The last time they tasted defeat was when England came to these shores in 2012-13. One of the key architects of that victory, Panesar, speaks to Swaroop Swaminathan about England's gameplan, his bowling, the Tendulkar wicket among others...

MONTY RECALLS

Monty Panesar had removed Sachin Tendulkar in both innings at Mumbai | BCCI

INDIA's 2012-13 home season was a winter of discontent. Even if some talented players were breaking through, others, most of them stalwarts, were in the December of their careers. The likes of Virender Sehwag and Sachin Tendulkar were found wanting against a bowling attack that zeroed in with the precision of a homing pigeon. One of the bowlers who led the turnaround after a beat-down in the first Test was Monty Panesar. On a turner at the Wankhede, the recalled left-armer picked up 11 wickets, including accounting for Sehwag and Tendulkar in both innings.

In that series, Panesar emerged as the third leading wicket-taker with 17 wickets in five innings. In an interview with this daily, the 41-year-old shares the gameplan going into the series, what happened between the first and second Tests and whether Bazball could challenge India's invincibility in the weeks to come. Excerpts:

● What was the gameplan like going into that series in 2012?

We (Graeme Swann, himself and captain, Alastair Cook) had felt that pace (of the spinners) was going to be a big factor. But it was also about how to keep the batters quiet and put them under pressure. Our strength in England is you have to sometimes bowl a bit quicker than in India because the pitches don't spin much. We used that philosophy where it was more about containment bowling than looking to attack. But once we built that pressure, we wanted to attack. It was about bowling very tight 5-6 overs before looking to open up from an attacking perspective.

We used that same philosophy on turning pitches. When we did that (bowl tight lines and not look to attack), the ball did turn as well as skid on. Even when we didn't look to attack, we let our natural stock deliveries create attacking options (in Mumbai, for example). It was how we built our gameplan.

● How hard was it to marry strategy with execution of these plans?

When Indian batters look to attack us, what happens us is they were trying to attack quality deliveries even when we weren't looking to attack. Everytime they look to attack and if we can pick up a wicket, we are in the game. If we aren't picking a wicket, we aren't going for runs, either. You have to earn the right to be slower. Bowling an arm ball, for instance, after a high-quality 4-5 overs. Now take the pace off. That was our mindset.

There were also different strategies for different batters. For Sehwag, it was in-out fields with the mid-on and mid-off being 5-10 yards deeper. For Tendulkar, it was another strategy. Also, for wicket-taking we targeted the first 10 and the last 10 of all sessions. A lot of wickets tend to fall in this phase so we were focused on picking up wickets in this part. If you a wicket in between, it was a bonus.

Sunday Special

● You weren't picked for that first Test (England played Samit Patel and Tim Bresnan)...

It was a mindset (thing), it was attacking. I did question it by saying that 'guys, if I play, it would send a message to the Indian team that we are going in with the attacking option'. When you don't pick your front-line bowlers and batters, that works may be in ODIs. But in Tests, you pick your best bowlers and batters. Then, you think about all the all-rounders. Instead, we went to cover our bases. It was more of a defensive strategy but we quickly realised that this wasn't going to work. Andy (coach Andy Flower) straightaway said 'let's go back to the traditional way of picking our best attacking bowlers and our best batters'.

● Any wickets that you recall and go 'that's nice'...

That opening wicket (in the second Test at Mumbai), the one where I bowled Sehwag. It was a bit lucky but it got me going. I was aggressive towards him, wicket-to-wicket without giving him any room. I wanted him to take the risks. Luckily, it hit his his pad before hitting the stumps. With Tendulkar, I only visualised hitting top of off. I was just telling myself 'I have to bowl my best deliveries because anything less and he's going to hit me'. I don't know what happened may be because of the pace or his bat had turned towards mid-wicket... (the ball pitched on leg before spinning past the outside edge and hitting the top of off). I was just focused on controlling and building pressure.

My shape on the ball during that series was amazing. I was getting good dip, the pace and the seam was a lot harder. I was able to bowl it quicker and get the revs going. When the seam goes soft, you have to bowl it slower to let the ball be slower through the air to allow it to turn. If you beat the batters in the air, the ball doesn't have to spin quickly off the surface because there's not much work left. But when you are bowling it quicker, the shape has to be good but then it has to spin quickly off the pitch. It will only turn quickly when the seam is hard. It will be interesting to see if the seam is soft... the spinners are going to struggle. If it's going to be hard, the England spinners will be in the game.

Part two of the interview where Panesar looks ahead to the India-England series will appear tomorrow...

SatChi enter final, Prannoy crashes

ANMOL GURUNG @New Delhi

THE weekend crowd went into a frenzy as Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty did their trademark celebrations here at the KD Jadhav Indoor Hall. The Indian doubles duo had saved the best for last on a chilly night here on Saturday.

High after a big win on Saturday, Satwik could be seen shaking his leg, delighting the vociferous crowd, who had patiently stayed behind to watch them weave the magic with their racquets. The immediate post-match drill could feature in one of their celebration compilations. The occasion was fitting indeed. The Indian duo had just made a tough match look easy with their attacking display. The World No 2 pair, who has made the habit of winning over the years, had just beaten Malaysian duo of Aaron Chia and Soh Wooi Yik 21-18, 21-14 in the semifinals of the ongoing India Open.

Aaron and Soh Wooi had entered the contest with quite a reputation and on paper, it had seemed like the meeting could be an epic contest. And it was epic for large parts of the opening game with both sides not letting their rivals take control of the proceedings. Chirag was lightning quick in front of the net and gained points on multiple occasions. In the second essay, the Malaysians had their noses in front in the early stages before Aaron accidentally got hit in the eye by the shuttle (Chirag had made a sharp return from the net). From thereon, it was one-way traffic as the Indians signed off in style. "It was a good win. Going into the match, we knew it's going to be a tough game because we have always had close ties against them. Likewise, it was quite close this time as well in the first game until the end. It was anybody's game and I thought we could have been a little bit calmer. But luckily, we managed to retain her nerves," Chirag told reporters during the post-match interaction. Chirag was also quick to thank the crowd for bringing the much-needed energy.

This win is also a marker on how far the Indian doubles pair have come. Until recently, the Malaysian pair had proven to be a real mystery and had a 8-0 head-to-head advantage over the Indians. But the Indians have now won their last three meetings against the Malaysian pair. "When we played last few times, people used to say '7-0, 8-0, you have never won', but I used to tell them 'it's okay'. We might lose 10 times, 100 times, but we'll at least win one time.' That has always been our motto and once we got over the line, then I knew we won't have any fear anymore. It took us a while to cross that line. All those wins have come when it has really mattered (Indonesia Open, Asian Games and today (Saturday)."

Having missed out on the final hurdle in last week's Malaysia Open, Satwik and Chirag will be hoping to go one step further this time. They'll be up against Kang Min Hyuk and Seo Seung Jae of Korea in the summit match on Sunday.

Prannoy loses in semis

Earlier, HS Prannoy lost to world No. 2 Shi Yu Qi of China in the men's singles semi-finals. The World No. 9 started well before losing momentum to suffer a 21-15 21-5 defeat.

Arsenal end losing streak, beat Palace 5-0

AFP @ London

ARSENAL breathed new life into their Premier League title challenge as a 5-0 win over Crystal Palace got the Gunners back to winning ways. Centre-back Gabriel did most of the damage before half-time as he headed in the opener then forced Palace goalkeeper Dean Henderson into an own goal. Leandro Trossard made it 3-0 on the hour mark before substitute Gabriel Martinelli struck twice in stoppage time.

Victory moves Mikel Arteta's men level with Manchester City and Aston Villa, two points behind leaders Liverpool. Arsenal had won just once in seven games prior to a two-week winter break. However, a warm weather training camp in Dubai looked to have refreshed them, even if they did have very obliging visitors in struggling Palace. The Eagles have won just once in 12 games to leave them still poised above the relegation zone and pile the pressure on Roy Hodgson. Arsenal's lack of a natural goalscorer up front has been scrutinised and the fact it was one of his defenders that ended a barren run in front of goal will remain a concern for Arteta.

Tai's happy beginning to 2024 continues

ANMOL GURUNG @New Delhi

IT is cold outside but inside the indoor stadium some quality badminton is setting the stage on fire literally. Tai Tzu-ying is one of the exponents who seems to be in a happy spot at the moment. She's doing what she does best, manipulating the shuttle at will and getting those all-important 'Ws'. At 29, the widely-recognised shuttler, who has loads of experience behind her, is not getting any younger and there have been talks about her retirement from the sport. She might not be as near-flawless like she used to be during her prime, but she has been purring in her recent matches. On Saturday, that was visible yet again as she captivated a sizeable crowd here with some high-quality badminton.

Sporting her trademark headband, the Taiwanese magician was off to a relatively modest start against Singapore's Yeo Jia Min in the women's singles semifinals. However, Tai never lost her laser focus and the World No 3 came out on top to reach her nth final of her decorated career. Her upswing in results could not have come at a better time — just about six months before the all-important Olympics. After signing off the year 2023 with a title (BWF World Tour Finals), she reached the Malaysia Open final last week. The winner of 16 BWF World Tour titles now has a chance to add to that tally. "I'm very happy. In the second game, I was falling behind but I managed to win. I enjoyed playing today (Saturday). I think that the audience cheering for me gave me strength and helped me turn the game," she said through a translator.

With the Olympics on the horizon, her aptitude to find answers during critical moments bodes well for her. Having just missed out on a gold medal during the Tokyo Olympics, Tai will be determined to change the colour of the medal this time. "This event is a platform for me. This will help me in the future," she said.

Linda Noskova reacts after beating Iga Swiatek on Saturday | AP

Swiatek knocked out of Oz Open, Alcaraz in 4th round

AGENCIES @ Melbourne

WORLD number one Iga Swiatek became the latest top-10 seed to crash out of the Australian Open on Saturday as Carlos Alcaraz sent a chilling warning to his rivals. Poland's Swiatek came into the third round match against 50th-ranked Linda Noskova on an 18-match unbeaten run, targeting a first title at Melbourne Park. But the tournament is turning into a graveyard for the seeds and the 22-year-old four-time major winner lost her way after winning the first set, going down 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

A day after defending champion Novak Djokovic returned to top form, Alcaraz laid down a marker in a lopsided contest against Chinese teenager Shang Juncheng lasting just 66 minutes. He was leading 6-1, 6-1, 1-0 when his 18-year-old opponent had to retire. Shang entered the clash with his upper right thigh strapped and received treatment on the injury during the second set.
